Medicare Issue

Trudeau Adamant

By RON COLLISTER, Ottawa Bureau

KAMLOOPS—Prime Minister Trudeau dug in his heels Monday and refused to agree to any fundamental change in the medicare plan.

He answered Tory leader Robert Stanfield, who pushed medicare into the election with a promise that he will change it.

"There's no might about it," Stanfield said. "I have seldom felt so strongly about anything in my life as I do about the federal government forcing its will on the provinces in this matter."

"It is a provincial matter," Stanfield said.

Dropping into Castlegar on a campaign stop through the B.C. Interior, Mr. Trudeau was asked if he was planning any change in medicare in the next session of parliament.

"...o," he replied, "medicare is the law of the land" and would come into effect on July 1, as scheduled.

He added that he stood by the principle of the plan and there was no question of amending it.

Mr. Trudeau spent a successful day in British Columbia, drawing good crowds along the way and giving his aides some hope that he will crack through the Tory-New Democratic strength in the province.

He began the day at Penikese, ended it at Prince George, then spent the night at Edmonton.

He traveled 600 miles by air and car, and hit the following issues:

● A task force to find out why Canada doesn't do better in Olympic and other international events, and to find some answers.

● Helping the peach farmers.

● Canada, as one nation.

At all points, Mr. Trudeau was applauded when he stated his unity policy, and applauded again when he spoke French.

His audiences, maybe, did not understand what he was saying. But they seemed to like the idea of him speaking French, in a province where opposition was said to be running strong.

There was little sign of opposition Monday.

Mr. Trudeau also hammered away at the need for rich provinces to help poorer provinces, to help keep the country together.

He was speaking in one of the "rich" provinces, which, through a system of equalization payments, funnel help to poorer provinces through Ottawa.

Some of the areas where he talked are "designated" areas, getting government help. But this is because of the season.

No Bill 33 Speedup In Woods Dispute

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

B.C. has no intention of speeding up the proclamation of full powers under controversial Bill 33 to meet the threat of a strike this summer in the coast lumber industry, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson indicated Monday.

He said it will be up to the commission, after it takes effect June 15, to set up its quarters in Vancouver and hire the necessary mediators and research staff before beginning operation. The fact June 15 is also the first day on which the coastal IWA workers can legally strike, if no settlement is reached before that with Forest Industrial Relations, representing the industry, has led to speculation that the commission might intervene before the full machinery is set up.

Mr. Peterson said the public reaction to appointment of Judge John Parker of the Yukon territorial court as chairman and mediation commissioners.

Protest Perch

NAPLES, Italy (Reuters)—Five unemployed building workers are perched atop a 100-foot high crane and refuse to move until they are given work.

The workers climbed the crane Saturday morning. Their families, police and others stood Monday at the foot of the crane trying to persuade the workers to come down—without success.

Student Unrest Boils

SFU Tension Eases

Now It's Oxford

OXFORD, England (UPI)—The international wave of student political unrest reached hallowed Oxford University Monday when 300 students besieged the offices of the proctors, the university police.

The raid came in a day which also saw student unrest in Yugoslavia, France, Italy and Japan (see stories this page and Page 2).

CAMPED OUTSIDE

The Oxford students burst into the university registry through iron gates and camped outside the proctors' office to press a protest against a ban on the "indiscriminate distribution" of political leaflets.

The demonstration, organized by a student group calling itself the Committee of 90, coincided with the lapse of an ultimatum presented to the proctors demanding a revision of the proctors' disciplinary memorandum to junior students.

TWO FEMALES

When proctors refused to receive a deputation of two women students, the demonstrators started shouting "proctors out" and "end proctorial tyranny." Then they forced their way into the courtyard iron gates.

It was an unprecedented scene at Britain's oldest university, where proctors have always commanded near-total respect.

POLICE STOOD BY

Students of the university Conservative Association staged a counter-demonstration in support of the proctors but there was no direct clash. Police stood by in case of violence, but took no action.

After scuffles broke out in the registry courtyard between some proctors and demonstrators, the proctors agreed to receive student leader Trevor Munro.

PROCTORS AGREE

Senior proctor Charles Smith and junior proctor Robert Gasser then agreed to delete from the memorandum the passage banning the distribution of leaflets.

The demonstration broke up on an understanding that the students would be given the amendments in writing. Two other minor student protest incidents marked the holiday in Britain.

● In Scotland, 25 Edinburgh University students were prevented by police from marching on the French consulate to demonstrate "solidarity" with the students and workers of France in their uprising against President Charles de Gaulle.

However police permitted a deputation to deliver a note to the consulate expressing "total solidarity" with the French students and workers.

● In the North London suburban Hornsey College of Art, where students were staging a weekend sit-in, the demonstrators published a 31-point manifesto demanding the abolition of examinations based on academic studies and certain entrance qualifications.

BURNABY (CP)—It was a day of action and confusion at troubled Simon Fraser University Monday, but at day's end the tension appeared to be easing a little.

In a major move, Dr. John Ellis resigned as temporary acting president, and Dr. Archibald MacPherson, head of the geography department and dean of arts, was nominated by the faculty to replace him.

Dr. MacPherson said he will seek ratification by students today. His name then will go before the board of governors for final approval.

Also seeking the position were Prof. Robert Hopper of the behavioral sciences foundation and Prof. R. L. Koepke of the history faculty.

During the nominations, the names of Dr. Ellis and Martin Loney, student council president, were put forward, but both declined.

The board earlier agreed it would accept a faculty decision on a temporary acting president.

Dr. Ellis was appointed only last Friday to the post, when president Dr. Patrick McTaggart.

Belgrade Youth Battles Police

BELGRADE (AP)—Shouting down Yugoslavia's Communist party leaders with cries of "We want action—enough with words," students surged into a free-swinging battle with police here Monday.

A bloody riot Sunday night gave President Tito's independent Communist country its first taste of the unrest and upheaval affecting many of the world's university cities.

More than 60 persons were reported injured in two clashes involving thousands of students and helmeted police in Belgrade. Students accused police of brutality. Authorities said provocateurs, capitalizing on student grievances, had expanded the violence and looted shops.

Later, students occupied a building housing Belgrade University's administrative offices and the school of philosophy. Police surrounded the building while hundreds of persons gathered outside to hear a student who made speeches from the balcony.

Elsewhere, speakers at a rally of 3,000 students called for parliament to meet on their complaints and denounced Yugoslav news media as biased against them.

The students asked that policemen who used "savage" tactics be demoted and that reporters who gave slanted

Italian Riot Squads Capture University

ROME (AP)—Italian riot police seized the embattled University of Rome on Monday from 2,000 rebellious leftist students who had held the campus for three days.

Police moved in at the request of university Rector Pietro Agostino d'Avack after an hour-long battle between rival student groups. Ten students were injured and 33 taken into custody.

The rebels occupied the grounds Friday in a protest at the social and educational system.

Meanwhile, Italy was troubled by a government crisis two weeks after the election for a new Parliament.

Premier Aldo Moro will submit his resignation after Parliament reconvenes Wednesday, although his Christian Democratic party made gains in the balloting.

PARIS (CP)—About two-thirds of the 9,000,000 employees on strike throughout France are due to vote today on offers of higher pay and better conditions designed to lure them back to work.

But the uncertainty of any immediate return to normal in crisis-ridden France caused Prime Minister Georges Pompidou Monday to cite the huge economic losses inflicted on the country as he pleaded with Frenchmen to "defend the republic and freedom."

JOURNALISTS STRIKE

However, journalists who have been continuing with preparation of news broadcasts for the state-owned French broadcasting service voted Monday night to strike—one element in an atmosphere which seemed to have soured since pre-weekend predictions of an early end to the nationwide work stoppages.

Hosts of Frenchmen were returning home after a long week-end holiday—and they faced the same nerve-wracking conditions of public-service paralysis in their home towns as when they left. Any expressions of optimism were cautiously phrased.

Monday brought agreement for work resumption in the petroleum industry. Students were still boycotting classes.

LOST PRODUCTION

Most of the strikes have been in effect for almost three weeks, and every week of work stoppage, Pompidou said, has meant a two-per-cent loss in France's annual gross national product—a cost of about $2,000,000,000 in lost production.

His statement struck a different note from the confident, almost gloating tones of the government declaration issued following a cabinet meeting Saturday.

Pompidou charged that "a certain number of individuals or groups have not laid down their arms."

"We believe that this crisis has shown that the republic is in danger," he added. "The Communist party has shown all its ambitions."

Suspect Held, Warhol 'Critical'

Woman Shoots Famed Pop Artist

NEW YORK (AP)—Andy Warhol, the pop artist and underground film producer, was shot and critically wounded by a woman Monday in his Manhattan office, police said.

One bullet also grazed an English art gallery owner, Mario Amaya, 30, of London. He later was released from Columbus Hospital, where Warhol underwent surgery.

Police Inspector Thomas McGuire said Warhol, 36, was shot once in the upper chest with a small calibre gun.

He was in surgery two hours later and the hospital described his condition as "still very serious and critical."

Police said the woman sought admission to Warhol's office by identifying herself to a secretary as Valerie Solanas. An actress by that name appeared in the Warhol film, I, a Man, a parody of a Swedish film about a nymphomaniac.

The woman walked out of the sixth floor office near Union Square. Several hours later, Miss Solanas, 28, turned herself over to a policeman in Times Square.

Viva, an actress who has been described as Warhol's most recent super-star, rushed to the hospital where she told reporters she had been talking on the telephone to Warhol at the time of the shooting.

"I heard five shots and a lot of screaming," Viva said. "I heard Andy screaming. I thought it was a joke, then the phone was dropped."

Police said that when the woman asked to see Warhol, the blonde artist told his secretary, Paul Morrissey, "Let her in," when he heard the name she gave.

Minutes later, Morrissey said, the short, thin woman, wearing a raincoat, calmly walked out, leaving the door ajar.

When Morrissey got up to close the door, he saw the two men on the floor, he told police.

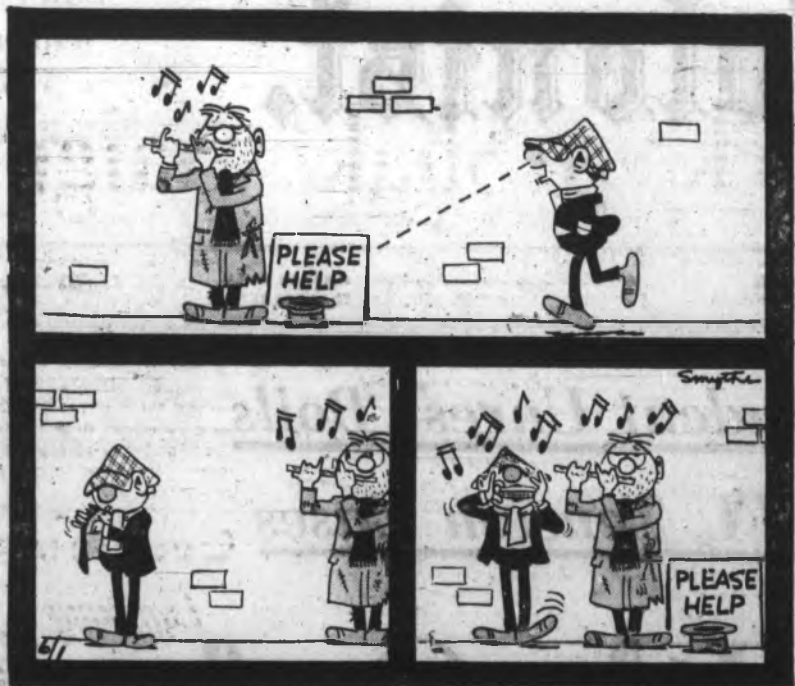

Warhol painted and toured with an electronic rock group called Velvet Underground, whose members wore boots, false eyelashes and striped tight pants.

He has produced more than 150 underground movies. The best known, Chelsea Girls, was the first underground film to be shown in a first-run commercial theatre.

Chelsea Girls ran 3½ hours, showing a group of girls and boys cutting their hair, injecting dope into the seats of their jeans and playing sex games. "I like boring things," he once said.

gart-Cowan, was placed on leave of absence following censure of the university by the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

The CAUT said there was interference with the faculty by the board of governors, too much power was placed with Chancellor Dr. Gordon Strum, "feudal" regulations governed teachers' job tenure, and there was a lack of communication with Dr. McTaggart-Cowan.

In another development Monday, students approved a proposal to boycott regular classes, but student leaders abandoned plans to organize non-credit classes in unoccupied lecture rooms.

The boycott plan was approved by only 57.8 per cent of 1,669 students who voted — out of a summer semester enrolment of 2,500 — and student leaders decided this not sufficient backing to carry out the plan.

The students, however, voted by an overwhelming 81.8 per cent for a second proposal demanding the resignation of the board of governors. No immediate action was taken on this.

The board, meanwhile, offered to implement on a permanent basis a statement on academic freedom and tenure. The statement would be based either on that in effect at the University of British Columbia or would be one endorsed by the CAUT.

The board also agreed to press for a review of the university act after "wide and extended consultation" with both the faculty and students.

Meanwhile, 21 SFU geography teachers, including Dr. MacPherson, threatened to walk off the job to back student demands for a more democratic administration.

A statement, signed by all 21, said: "We will find it impossible to continue our services at the university if the issues are not faced squarely or if evasive or punitive measures are invoked."

Smokes Worsen Emphysema

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the cause and what are the symptoms of emphysema? I am nearly 70 and smoke two packs of cigarettes a day. Is there any cure? — E.K.O.

Various things cause emphysema, which is a loss of elasticity or stretchiness in the lungs, and the breaking down of the tiny air sacs where oxygen is picked up by the bloodstream.

Smoking is one cause; air pollution another. Asthma bronchitis or other condition which puts a continuing strain on the lungs often is involved. And, of course, any disease which damages and scars the lungs can contribute — tuberculosis being one of several.

The essential symptom is inability to exhale strongly enough — and that in turn means insufficient space into which to draw fresh air. Thus shortness of breath becomes apparent as emphysema progresses.

There isn't any cure, so the only sensible recourse is to make use of every possible means of preventing the emphysema from becoming worse. A variety of methods help, but one thing is certain: You must stop smoking.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have always bought white shell eggs. Now my husband has been buying eggs in the country with brown shells. He claims they are better than white.

I don't think so. If they were better, why don't the stores sell more of the brown? — Mrs. L.M.

The color of the shell has nothing to do with the quality of the egg. In most parts of the country, people prefer eggs with white shells, so that's what the stores carry. But there are some parts of the country where people, for reason unknown, prefer brown eggs — so farmers send brown eggs to those markets.

Thoughts Voiced

Key Primary Due Today

From UPI

Robert Kennedy, the choice of the polls to win the important Democratic presidential primary in California today, says his three personal heroes are men who belonged to the Republican party.

The "personal thoughts" of Kennedy and other leading Democratic and Republican candidates for the 1968 U.S. presidential nominations were disclosed in a 90-minute program produced by British TV personality David Frost.

They showed, among other things, that Hubert Humphrey would step aside "with no mixed feelings at all" if President Johnson decided to run again, and Richard Nixon regretted, above all, telling off the press after his defeat for governor of California.

KENNEDY WINNER? The program was released as polls showed Monday that Kennedy is liable to get 36 per cent of the votes on the Democratic side of the primary, while Eugene McCarthy may get 31 per cent and a pro-Humphrey slate led by state Attorney General Thomas Lynch could get 18 per cent.

The only Republican candidate is Governor Ronald Reagan and California does not allow write-in votes.

STRONG BID As the campaigning ended in California, Kennedy revived suggestions that McCarthy join him after the primary to battle Humphrey's strong bid.

But McCarthy, who upset Kennedy in the Oregon primary a week ago, replied: "Under no circumstances would I join with Kennedy to stop Humphrey."

Frost's program also included interviews of Nelson Rockefeller, Harold Stassen and George Wallace, the latter saying he would prefer to be remembered as a man who lived to be 121 years old.

Kennedy listed the men he admired most as Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover, adding Charles Lindbergh as an afterthought. Remarking on his brother's handling of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, Kennedy said 14 people were the inner circle that decided U.S. policy and six of them had been president of the United States. I think the world might have been blown up."

NO NAMES He intimidated the six wanted to force Russia's hand faster than President Kennedy, but he did not name names.

McCarthy, asked what he thought people were on earth, said it had to do with "service to the rest of humanity" plus perfecting one's ability to grasp knowledge and appreciate beauty.

Humphrey said, "I wouldn't have any mixed feelings at all" if a draft-Johnson move succeeded. "If the Democratic convention felt that the president wanted the nomination, then I would go along," he said.

COMMUNIST WITH BUNT Humphrey said the action he regretted most in politics was not being "a little braver" in opposing the late Senator Joseph McCarthy's communists-in-government investigations. Nixon ruled that "I can't do anything about my face. I've tried but there it is." But he said the 1962 farewell blast at the press was the mistake he regretted.

NO IDEA THEN Nixon quickly conceded he had violated sound advice with "my criticism of the press when I lost for governor of California." But he said, "I didn't have any idea that I would ever be sitting where I am today being interviewed as a potential candidate for the presidency."

The perennial losing campaigner, Harold Stassen, was asked if defeat saddened him. SIMPLY CARRY ON "No," Stassen replied. "I recognize it as a part of a time in which your political influence is at a low ebb and you simply carry on. You know that when you're battling for basic principles on very major issues that

In Vernon, he said that Canada is only beginning to be great.

He predicted that whatever costly programs were initiated would be to help the regions that need help most.

"We are telling the rich provinces that they have to help," he said.

Helping underdeveloped provinces was "an important aspect of unity."

At Kelowna airport, where he was not scheduled to speak, he told a crowd of 1,000 people:

"I think that the people of Canada more quickly than many of their politicians, have learned that this idea of two official languages in Canada is a mechanical, operational concept."

"You don't divide the country by saying there will be two vehicles, two means of communication with your government. That doesn't mean that everyone has to speak both languages."

"And it is completely different than saying there are two nations. In a political sense, there is only one nation."

Mr. Trudeau said that if he was willing to grant that

The task force, he said, would be a one-man or one-woman force, and the objective would be to find out why, in Olympics, for example, there were not more outstanding performers like ski-champion Nancy Greene.

He would expect a quick report from the task force, and perhaps the government could act to meet the problem before the next Olympics.

Today, Mr. Trudeau told Alberta.

'Slanderous'

Laos Chief Roasted By North

HANOI (AP) — Laotian Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma came under violent attack here Monday for accusing North Vietnam of aggression in Laos. He made the charge last Friday in a speech in Vientiane to the Laotian National Assembly.

The North Vietnamese foreign ministry, through its spokesman, rejected the charge, which it described as slanderous.

'JUST A FABLE'

"The underlying origin and direct cause of the current situation are to be found in the American intervention and aggression in Laos through the systematic sabotage by the United States of the 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements on Laos."

The spokesman said the presence of North Vietnamese troops in Laos had already been alleged by the U.S. at the Paris talks. This was a "fable" which, like that of a "fable" which, "aggression in South Vietnam," served to mask U.S. "crimes of aggression against Vietnam."

PRAQUE (UPI) — Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders will not allow non-Communist parties to compete for political power, an official report disclosed Monday.

But party secretary Alexander Dubcek and his reform-minded supporters will continue their democratization process in an effort to create "a new form of socialist democracy."

The CTK news agency Monday released the text of a speech made by Dubcek to the central committee last week. The speech was clearly aimed at striking a compromise between Communist leaders' determination to continue reforms and at the same time to mollify Moscow's opposition to them.

BASIC DIFFERENCE

"The basic difference between our new democracy and western democracies will be the relation between political parties — in our case a relation of partnership and co-operation instead of a struggle for redividing power," Dubcek said.

Dubcek described his socialist democracy as coming to grips with the major problem that "no bourgeois democracy has solved or even formulated — how the working people themselves should and can play a direct role in the management and administration of society."

Dubcek also made it clear that old-line Stalinist leaders would be dismissed from positions of power.

SUPPORT INDICATED

He indicated a wide support for his measure by saying that "the most definite views were expressed by thousands of resolutions, demanding the departure of discredited members of the central committee, especially Antonin Novotny, who was replaced by Dubcek as party secretary in January, was ousted from the central committee last week."

Dubcek said he favored political opposition within the framework of the national front, a popular organization also dominated by the Communists.

"In the new conception of the national front there will be room enough for controversies, clashes of views and opposition arguments," he added.

Breakaway Biafra Told 'Talk or Else'

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Federal leader Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon delivered a "talk or else" warning to breakaway Biafra Monday just four days after the collapse of negotiations to end their bloody 11-month-old civil war.

Gowon made his remarks when he received the federal delegation, led at the peace talks in Kampala, Uganda, by Chief Anthony Enahoro, in Lagos.

Gowon stressed "on our part we are prepared to go another meeting whenever the rebels are ready."

He hoped the Biafrans, adherents of Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu in the eastern region of Nigeria which proclaimed its secession from the federation last May 31, would "see reason" and accept federal terms for a peaceful settlement.

If they did not, he warned "we shall continue until they are pushed to the wall."

Reviewing the military situation in a war which has cost an estimated 100,000 lives at least, Gowon said federal troops were moving to encircle the remaining Biafran-held areas.

U.S. Regrets Fatal Misfire

Cong Rockets Shake Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong fired 40 rockets into Saigon and its suburbs Monday in the heaviest bombardment of the war against South Vietnam's capital.

For the first time, the city's sirens sounded to put the population of 3,000,000 on the general alert.

But initial reports indicated the early-morning barrage of 100-pound rockets caused more terror and harassment than casualties.

An incomplete tabulation showed 10 Vietnamese civilians wounded in metropolitan Saigon, with reports lacking from outlying districts.

South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported 25 mortar rounds hit the highland city of Ban Me Thuot, capital of Darlac province, 160 miles northeast of Saigon. There was no report of casualties.

In Saigon, several rounds of the Soviet-made, 122-mm rockets hit two merchant ships tied up in the city's river dock.

The ships, the Steel Apprentice and the Gretna Victory, were under contract to carry U.S. military supplies.

The capital has been under enemy shelling almost nightly for the last month. Most of the shelling has been light bombardment, apparently intended at harassment.

IN FIGHTING

In fighting Monday, South Vietnamese rangers, led by a tank unit that flattened cars and houses in its path, closed in on Viet Cong diehards about 1,000 feet from the shattered command post where six key Saigon officials were killed by an American helicopter's strafing rocket.

The death Sunday of the six military and police officers — and the wounding of four more officials, including Saigon's mayor — strained U.S.-Vietnamese relations and upset American officials. The Saigon Daily News complained the incident "has given the people at large the feeling that the Americans take little care."

NO BLAME

No blame was placed for the accident in the South Vietnamese military command's Monday evening communique.

But U.S. officials paid calls on President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky, whose brother-in-law was killed, "to express personal and official regrets."

Fighting went on for the 10th day in the four-block area of Cholon, Saigon's Chinatown. While South Vietnamese tanks were systematically devastating the area, officers said they thought there were 15 to 20 Viet Cong holed up in a number of three- and four-story buildings linked by holes smashed through the walls.

Hanoi Team Grows

PARIS (AP) — A top-level North Vietnamese arrived here Monday via Moscow to beef up his government's peace talks delegation and charged that only an "obstinate" U.S. attitude prevents the conversations from entering a more fruitful stage.

Le Duc Tho, a member of the ruling Communist party politburo of North Vietnam, issued a statement which seemed milder in tone than some of the harsh denunciations which have been issued by Hanoi's delegation in the Paris talks.

This appeared to keep alive the hope that Tho carried with him some sort of decision by his party's politburo and central committee regarding the Paris conversations.

"World and American opinion have severely condemned the obstinacy of the American side and fully supported the just position of the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam," Tho said.

Tho, who had talks with top Soviet leaders in Moscow, ranks high in the party, possibly third or fourth after President Ho Chi Minh.

Greeks and Turks Open Cyprus Talks

BEIRUT (UPI) — Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders began informal talks Monday as the first step towards settling the 4 1/2-year-old Cyprus dispute.

This was the first meeting between the factions since fighting broke out in Cyprus in December, 1963. The dispute threatened to plunge Greece and Turkey into war and wreck NATO's southeast flank.

The talks, expected to last four or five days, will precede formal discussions on Cyprus.

EDMONTON (CP) — Only one forest fire is still burning out of control in Northern Alberta, a spokesman for the department of lands and forests says.

The fire, near Calling Lake, 150 miles north of here, is one of 60 fires burning in the province. The others are under control.

Now! Chevy II brings you Clutchless driving for only $81.45.*

Beautiful!

New Chevy II Torque-Drive

Stop. Go. Stop and go again. This seems to be what driving's all about these days. There's one beautiful way to make this every day kind of driving a lot more comfortable and convenient... with Chevy II's new Torque-Drive transmission. No one else has anything quite like it at this price. It does away with the clutch pedal. All you do is move a lever, conveniently located on the steering column, into an appropriate position on the selector quadrant: Park-R-N-Hi-1st. To accelerate from a standstill, you shift only once—from 1st to Hi; without clutching. Think what that kind of convenience means in the rush hour. Economy of operation is another big plus feature for this new transmission. Torque-Drive gives you gas economy comparable to that of a manual transmission. What a combination! Beautiful Chevy II with a gas-money-and-foot-saver like this is just too good to pass up. Check it out with your Chevrolet dealer today.

Every Chevy II has to make it before we make it.

New Face, Old Line

THERE'S A NEW FACE on the Communist side of the table at the Paris talks, but Mr. Le Duc Tho quickly dispelled any hope that he would advise the least departure from the old, tiresome line. This is represented by North Vietnam's insistence that the United States unconditionally stop all bombing and desist from other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. Mr. Tho, it had been hoped, might bring new instructions from Hanoi.

For three weeks, now, the Hanoi negotiators—if indeed they can be identified as such—have repeated the theme which the United States must inevitably resist on several grounds.

In the first place, agreement to the North Vietnamese demand would be an admission of responsibility for aggression, something the United States totally rejects. It would allow the unprovoked reinforcement of North Vietnamese who are pressing the offensive in the South's heartland. And it would deprive the defenders of essential life-saving support.

More than that, the United States' allies, particularly the South Vietnamese, would strenuously oppose any such moral and tactical surrender.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the only hope of progress at the Paris talks will depend upon possible outside persuasion.

There was the hint of such a move when the British foreign minister, Mr. Michael Stewart, went to Moscow in mid-May. But the assumption was premature. Neither Mr. Stewart nor Mr. Andrei Gromyko, his Soviet counterpart, seem to feel they can do more at this point than examine the difficulties and suggest some means of overcoming them.

As representatives of the two nations which co-chaired the Geneva Conference which initially sought to establish the peace in Vietnam, Britain and Russia may yet feel themselves called upon to take a lead. Each is identified with opposite sides and, if they sought out a sensible formula, might find their influence sufficient to promote it.

It will be necessary, however, to approach the situation warily. Any hint of coercion could stampede the whole over-sensitive herd. As long as that can be avoided there is a chance of settlement. Both parties must believe in it, otherwise they would not be there.

Their meetings have long since ceased to have any value for propaganda purposes, and the world is becoming impatient with the persistent posturing.

Both Wrong

IN MANY AREAS of national concern the policies of the two major federal political parties are remarkably similar. Indeed, as has been pointed out recently by Canada Month, Liberal Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Stanfield are more in agreement with each other than either is with Lester Pearson or John Diefenbaker.

In the main this could be a good thing in that it indicates that the brain-trusters of both parties have independently arrived at the same conclusions on certain issues.

On this basis it might therefore be logical to assume that if both the Grits and the Tories support the same policy or ideal — though perhaps presenting it to the public in different words — it must be the right one.

On the other hand, however, the assumption that both could be wrong would be equally reasonable. Such as, for instance, their joint adherence to the proposition that Canada was created — and still so remains — an equal partnership between two founding races.

This dual partnership definition was first put forward by former Prime Minister Pearson in his terms of reference to the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism and has since become wholly accepted by both Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Stanfield despite the fact that it is patently and unfairly incorrect.

Canada was not founded as a partnership between two peoples. It was created by the joining together of four separate colonies — or provinces — namely Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. It was then — as it is now — a nation of many founding races.

The census of 1871 taken four years after Confederation, shows our early Canadians were descendants of many races: British, French, German, Dutch, Indian, African, Swiss, Scandinavian, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, Russian, Polish and others. As a point of interest the 1871 census shows that in three of the four founding provinces German-Canadians outnumbered French-Canadians by 195,038 to 153,123.

And since that date other provinces and other peoples have joined the Confederation — until today one-third of Canada's population is made up of citizens of neither British nor French descent.

Canada was and is not a country populated exclusively by people of French or British extraction and no special status on an equal partnership basis or any other should be granted to either of these two races — to the exclusion of all others — now or at any time in the future.

Hospital Fees

IT APPEARS to be only speculation at this time that hospital boards may soon be given power to charge more than the $1-a-day co-insurance fee for general ward care, and in other ways increase their revenue from patients. The closest Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has come to disclosing such an intention is his assertion that the government appreciates the need "to confer upon a hospital board powers and responsibilities commensurate with its ability to function at a high degree of efficiency." This remark perhaps has nothing to do with power to alter rates.

If this is what the government is contemplating, however, particularly with regard to the co-insurance charge, surely it ought to have the political gumption to raise the fee itself.

It is difficult to believe, in the first place, that a moderate increase, even a doubling of the dollar a day average hospital stay would still not be large.

Whether or not resentment would be generated, however, the government runs the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, and the government should take any blame for a change in rates.

To place the onus on hospital boards not even elected by the taxpayers of their communities would be an all-too-obvious attempt to duck responsibility.

The real pacifist.

Three Poisons Flood the Landscapes

IT seems undeniable that some disaster may be lurking in all this (pollution) but laymen hardly know which scientist to believe. As a result of fossil-fuel burning, for example, carbon dioxide in the atmosphere has risen about 14 per cent since 1860. According to ecologist Lamont C. Cole, man is thus reducing the rate of oxygen regeneration, and Cole envisions a crisis in which the amount of oxygen on earth might disastrously decline. Other scientists fret that rising carbon dioxide will prevent heat from escaping into space. They foresee a hotter earth that could melt the polar icecaps, raise oceans as much as 400 feet, and drown many cities. Still other scientists forecast a colder earth (the recent trend) because man is blocking sunlight with ever more dust, smog and jet contrails. The cold promises more rain and hail, even a possible cut in world food. Whatever the theories may be, it is an established fact that three poisons now flood the landscapes: smog, pesticides, nuclear fallout.

Reprinted here are major excerpts from a Time essay, "The Age of Effluence", which appeared in the May 10 issue of that magazine. This is the second of two installments.

sulphur, for example, which is in short supply around the world. While 26 million tons are mined a year, smokestacks belch 28 million tons of waste sulphur dioxide, which could easily be trapped in the stack and converted to sulphuric acid or even fertilizer. Standard Oil of California is already profitably recovering the refinery sulphur waste that pollutes streams.

Sometimes pollution can help recreation. In flat northern Illinois, for instance, the handsomest recreation area will be Du Page County's fast-rising 118-foot hill and 65-acre lake — artfully built on garbage fill. One form of pollution could even enhance — rather than spoil — water sports. Much of the nation's coastline is too cold for swimming; if marine life can be protected, why not use nuclear plant heat to warm the water? Or even create underwater national parks for scuba campers?

Ideally, every city should be a closed loop, like a space capsule in which astronauts reconstitute even their own waste. This concept is at the base of the federally aided "Experimental city surrounded by as many as 40,000 acres of insulating open countryside.

"We need urban dispersal," says Spilhaus, "not urban renewal." In the search for solutions, there is no point in attempting to take nature back to its pristine purity. The approach must look forward. There is no question that just as technology has polluted the country, it can also depollute it. The real question is whether enough citizens want action.

The biggest need is for ordinary people to learn something about ecology, a humbling as well as fascinating way of viewing reality that ought to get more attention in schools and colleges. The trouble with modern man is that he tends to yawn at the news that pesticides are threatening remote peninsulas or pelicans; perhaps he could do with some of the humility toward animals that St. Francis tried to graft onto Christianity. The false assumption that nature exists only to serve man is at the root of an ecological crisis that ranges from the lowly litterbug to the lunacy of nuclear proliferation. At this hour, man's only choice is to live in harmony with nature, not conquer it.

Bobby Kennedy's Strategy Dilemma

By MARQUIS CHILDS

as they see on television the clutching hands tearing at his person.

Second, Kennedy can divide the party in such a way that the nomination will be of relatively little value come the November election. No one can dispute the intensity of his following among minorities and in particular among Negroes. In Indiana he put these minorities together for a decisive win, and he achieved the same end although with smaller means in Nebraska.

Turning these minorities against Humphrey, encouraging the belief that in frustrating Kennedy the vice-president is a doubtful ally, plays the game of the Republican opposition. Yet how to stop Humphrey short of such a tactic is the Kennedy dilemma. And that dilemma is compounded by the loss of New York, it must be remembered, is Kennedy's home state, if only by adoption. Should Humphrey take a third or even a fourth of the elected delegates, Senator Kennedy could hardly count the result a triumph.

In his telegram of congratulation to Eugene McCarthy on winning Oregon, Kennedy sounded almost wistfully the note running through much of his campaign: "We can both take some satisfaction in the overwhelming verdict of the Oregon voters for a change in national policies." The McCarthy-Kennedy vote, he was saying, was a repudiation, too, of Humphrey, who must run as the candidate who has supported the Johnson policies.

The Democrats have always been far scrappier lot than the Republicans. Whether they can reunite after their nominee is chosen at Chicago is the biggest of all the imponderables in this uncertain year.

Dateline: Europe

Instruments of Global Forces

By OTTO VON HABSBURG

THE chaos in France and West Germany, which seems to be spreading to other areas, is much too systematic and well co-ordinated to be just an accident. True, the promoters of the movement came from various political schools. Nevertheless, it is the Communists, better disciplined, more united and also superbly led, who, in the last analysis, are guiding their anarchist, nihilist, Trotskyite or simply revolutionary partners. In France, one must realize that communism, in an act of brilliant strategy, is throwing all its reserves into the battle.

In Paris the turn of events was May 15. That day, General de Gaulle, touring Romania, had his greatest personal success. Before enthusiastic crowds he had announced that soon he would visit Prague. These two combined factors led to the Communist counter-attack.

The reason is obvious. For the Kremlin, the main problem now is polycentrism in Central Europe. Conditions in 1968 prevent repetition of Khrushchev's brutal move of 1956. Military intervention seems no longer feasible. The means to put pressure on the governments are mainly economic. The nations which have been able to expand their foreign trade can, therefore, resist. This is the case notably for Romania and Czechoslovakia.

To stop the alarming movement, there remains the remedy of striking west of the polycentric countries. More important still, the man considered by Moscow as the true architect of the development must be discredited.

Those who know Central and Eastern Europe are well aware of the tremendous prestige which de Gaulle enjoys in these countries. A little detail: Polish students at present are wearing a cap which resembles that of the French general. An effective means to strike at the idea he

U.S. Universities

Revolt on the Campus

By JOYCE EGGINTON from New York

THE international student revolt was undoubtedly born in the United States, when the civil rights movement became an overwhelmingly popular student cause in the early 1960s. The thousands of students who streamed into the Deep South, joining Negroes in the highly effective non-violent demonstrations inspired by the late Martin Luther King, entered the movement with a naivety and an idealism. From it they learned, perhaps for the first time, that they had the power to achieve political reform.

Their next cause was the Vietnam war, a highly personal one for almost all male students — eligible for military service and detesting the thought. This was coupled with a very real protest against the increasing involvement of the United States in the war. Some of the student protests in major universities, which include Princeton and Columbia, have been against the use of the universities' scientific facilities for government-sponsored military research.

Along with this has grown a student demand for internal reform of the universities. Since the 1950s, student enrollment in this country has increased from 2,600,000 to 7,000,000 and the growth — particularly in big-city universities — has meant further estrangement between students and junior faculty on the one hand, and senior faculty and university administration on the other.

Nowadays, only in the small private American universities has the close relationship between student and senior professor survived. Very few American students have the rich European-type experience of being personally tutored by a great teacher. The great teacher, where he exists, is a remote instructor who delivers lectures to several hundred at a time in a large auditorium. Students are then left to work out their lessons with junior faculty or post-graduate students, of comparatively mediocre ability.

All this has led students to feel that the university administration is utterly out of touch with them, lacking any realization of their feelings or needs. It is significant that America's worst student riots have broken out in the huge, impersonal universities — at Berkeley in California in 1964, and at Columbia in New York this spring. Both times the trouble started with a minority group of left-wing political activists who won the support of other students when their demonstrations showed how wide the gap between the university administration and the student body can become. In both instances, junior faculty members, who also felt remote from their seniors, joined the students in protest.

At the heart of the current unrest is a combination of the three issues which have been developing these past few years — the knowledge of student power achieved in the civil rights movement, coupled with the feeling that urban universities continue to remain isolated from the ghetto life around them; the Vietnam protest, coupled with university support of the so-called defence program; the growing need for changes within the university structure, permitting students a more open relationship with the faculty and administration.

"By a kind of unconscious conspiracy by stupid administrators and student hotheads, these three questions have been amalgamated into a single cause," a senior faculty member at Yale observed.

His point was demonstrated in the recent Columbia riots, where these same issues became totally confused and, having won temporary control of the university, the student demonstrators were at a loss as to how to pursue their revolution.

At Columbia, as across the country, the student revolt has no coherent purpose. Although the students clamor for more control of their institutions, "given the key," the president's office and told to run the damn place they would all fade away," the Yale professor remarked. He characterized the revolt as "an increasing disenchantment with the institutionalism of education" and commented on the students' "they have the same attitude towards institutional education as my generation had towards institutional religion."

There is an even larger difference between the student generations. The last college generation was strongly motivated by the necessity of training for a career and the urgent importance of finding work after graduation. These students could not have cred led less who ran the university. They wanted to get out of it and into the world.

To lesser extent this attitude persisted up to 10 years ago, but now the majority of college students come from comfortable homes and even those from poorer backgrounds feel little pressure to get out to work. There are always recruiters on the campuses; a student knows that after graduation he can easily get a good job. He also knows that, whatever his ambition, he may well end up in Vietnam.

In addition, there is the factor that the average middle-class American parent no longer pushes his child through college. He just seems relieved. If the boy or girl stays the course and does not smoke pot.

With the work pressure removed, students have been creating pressures of their own. They wonder what they are doing in college and how they can make themselves felt. And they have discovered that, while they can have little impact upon the world outside, they can wreck the institution of an entire university and pull down the Establishment.

The only real organization behind the riots is SDS — Students for a Democratic Society. This came into being as a result of student involvement in the civil rights movement and it has small chapters — the largest, at Harvard, numbers only about 200 at most of the major universities.

In character SDS is revolutionary, idealistic, Marxist and quite naive. Its members — some of whom call themselves Maoists, in protest against Soviet communism, which they feel to be corrupt — are the troublemakers who frequently instigate the riots.

The mass of students are, either opposed to SDS, or apathetic, but disenchantment with university power politics can influence them to endorse certain SDS tactics.

American conservatives claim that SDS is controlled from Peking and that the student riots are part of an international Communist plot. There was also a report that at a policy meeting some months ago, SDS members agreed upon tactics to take over a major American university this spring and picked Columbia as their target. However, it seems unlikely that SDS is anywhere nearly so well organized, or that it is any more than a personal expression of student extremists. The typical SDS member is a student from a comfortable home, with permissive parents who have liberal political views.

Within the framework of the American student revolt, Negro students have combined to form their own revolution. An extension of the Black Power campaign, it is a separatist movement which excludes all white students, even those of the most liberal persuasion. Its demands frequently include separate dormitories and common rooms for Negro students, and it has grown from the failure of the civil rights movement to achieve meaningful integration. In the Columbia revolt, there was a body of these black students also rioting to take over the campus — but for their own purpose and at enmity with the whites.

Nationalists Now Serious Political Force

Scotland May Win Home Rule

By ROBERT C. TOTH
From London

Nationalists were as thick as salmon in Scotland last week and striving just as hard to make it upstream—in this case, to independence from English rule.

"We are no longer a missionary party but a party on the eve of taking over the government of Scotland," declared the chairman of the Scottish Nationalists to 1,000 delegates—twice last year's number—at their annual conference in Aberdeen.

Welsh nationalists attending the conference of their Celtic kin were equally optimistic about freedom, although with less cause.

Like the Scots, they have a member of parliament in Westminster, but the Welsh movement is more culturally than politically based, emphasizing revival of the Welsh language and Welsh traditions. And unlike the Scots, they have yet to shed the militant fringe which dilutes their energy and tends to tar them all as cranks.

The fringe, something called the Free Wales Army, set off bombs again last week. One blew out the windows of the British government's Welsh office in Cardiff. Another was exploded near a Welsh dam that supplies ("steals," insist the nationalists) water to Liverpool.

The Scots and the Welsh have infected other areas on the periphery of Great Britain with nationalistic feelings, until it seems that the only contented non-Englishmen are the Northern Irish—and they are the most likely to leave eventually to join their Southern countrymen.

The Isle of Man, the Channel Islands, the Orkneys and Shetland, even Cornwall have been making noises for greater autonomy. The men of Manx and of Jersey and Guernsey are currently discussing with Whitehall changes in their constitutional relationship to Britain.

Beyond the cranks and the fun, however, the nationalism of Scotland and Wales is a serious political force in Britain today, seeking as it does to dismember the British Isle much as it tore apart the British Empire abroad.

It is serious primarily because of Britain's overall economic troubles that hit areas like Scotland and Wales first and hardest. Scots and Welsh who normally vote for Labor are deeply dissatisfied with the ruling Labor government, as indeed are many Britons, but the Celts have the alternative of voting for nationalist parties rather than Tories.

While this explains much of the new vitality of nationalism, the Scottish movement has gained such momentum that even if the British economy revives, the impetus may carry the party through to significant gains toward Scottish autonomy.

Party membership is up from 2,000 in 1962 to about 1,000,000 now. Most are from the middle classes, and half are under 35. Within the last year the Scots elected their first nationalist member of parliament in 20 years. Last month they captured 100 council seats in the local elections with 36 per cent of the vote.

Their aim now is to win at least half the 71 Scottish seats in the British parliament at the next general election (to be held before March, 1970) and go on to total freedom for Scotland.

They complain that Scotland presently gets short shrift from England. Taxes are said to take away $200,000,000 a year more than is returned in public services. But the calculation does not include a share of Britain's defence costs, for example, and in any case, the central government spends 25 per cent more per capita in Scotland than in England and Wales.

Whether a n independent Scotland could survive is debatable. Figures cited by both sides are impossible to disprove or to verify. It does seem at times that Scots nationalists, like nationalist elsewhere, confuse being separate with being equal, and in the end they would prefer self-government to good government.

The odds are, however, that

Tho's Presence Gives Paris Talks New Hope

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN
From Paris

The arrival here Monday of Le Duc Tho—from Hanoi means that North Vietnam's ruling party now is engaged in the preliminary peace talks with the United States. It also may indicate a disposition to talk about a settlement in South Vietnam.

Le Duc Tho is a member of the politburo of the central committee of the Lao Dong (workers) party, North Vietnam's directing party which makes the decisions the government carries out.

The Paris talks up to now have been left in the hands of government functionaries. Le Duc Tho is the first notable party man to be involved. He has the title of "special adviser" to the Hanoi delegation, but may take part personally.

As a politburo member, Le Duc Tho ranks high in the party. Past practice has shown that the party relies on the collective decision of its

LST, from Hong Kong

Asian diplomats in Peking, looking ahead, agree cautiously that China, however hostile, could not reject an invitation to attend an enlarged Vietnam conference which, for a successful outcome, must follow the exploratory talks in Paris.

Private reports from two Asian sources in Peking, received here this week, independently forecast Chinese attendance and each indicates that this is the general opinion in other foreign embassies.

The Chinese press has still not reported or discussed details of the struggling talks.

politburo members to arrive at crucial policy decisions.

In the undeclared war with the United States, it will be the party that makes the milestone decisions, as it has in the past, and the government and the army that carry them out.

Le Duc Tho enjoys special importance, because he has always been considered by American intelligence as somewhat of a specialist on the affairs of Southern Vietnam.

American Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told the North Vietnamese delegation here on May 27 that Le Duc Tho was known to have been in the Saigon region sometime in the late 1950s when the party was deciding how it should react to the postponement of the Vietnam-wide general elections that had been scheduled for July, 1956.

Tho has, therefore, been intimately connected with his party's decisions on South Vietnam since an early date. With this background, it is regarded as scarcely credible by observers here that he has come to Paris merely to peddle Hanoi's often-repeated demand for a total halt to the American bombing and reconnaissance of North Vietnam.

The conclusion is that Tho has come to talk about the South, and what kind of bargain can be offered the United States to permit it to extricate itself gracefully.

Leadership Position Weakened

France's Crisis Proves Disastrous for Economy

By CARL HARTMAN
From PARIS

Strikes and violence since early May have seriously weakened France's economic leadership in Europe.

The crisis has been a disaster for the French economy, which already had two grave weaknesses: Low pay and unemployment.

The strikes were touched off by rebellious students, but once they got under way the strikers' determination was strengthened by discontent with wages, joblessness, rising taxes and prices.

To end the strikes there will have to be substantial wage increases, so—although President de Gaulle's economic power is weakened—a lot of Frenchmen will be at least temporarily better off.

Pierre Uri, who might become finance minister if de Gaulle should go, estimates the cost of the present situation at $2,000,000,000 a week. It will be a miracle, he says, if France shows any economic growth this year. A growth rate of five per cent had been predicted.

One important source of earnings from abroad, the tourist trade, has been hit hard.

Wage increases will send prices soaring, so foreign buyers will be less interested in French goods. The high prices for domestic goods will make imported products more attractive, so imports will rise as exports decline.

France is pledged on July 1 to make some serious cuts in its tariffs. It must eliminate all duties on goods from European Common Market countries and reduce them on goods coming from most other countries, in accordance with the Kennedy round agreements of last year. These cuts will bring in even more imported goods.

It seems likely France will have to use up some of its $6,000,000,000 hoard of gold and foreign currencies to pay for its imports. Some of its U.S. dollar reserves are already being used to support the price of the franc, which has dropped about 10 per cent.

This situation, incidentally, will ease some of the outflow of gold and dollars from the United States. France no longer will be in any position to attack the value of the dollar.

De Gaulle's government has slapped on a series of controls designed to prevent the flight of capital. Frenchmen had been reported hot-footing it across the Swiss border with valises full of gold and paper money. There was nothing illegal about this at the time, but it was highly damaging to the economy.

French firms operating abroad have been ordered to send their earnings home.

Humphrey Forging Ahead

By ARCH MACKENZIE
From Washington

The upshot of the much-heralded television debate between Senators Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy is that Vice-President Hubert Humphrey appears well on the road to taking the Democratic party presidential nomination they both seek.

And that applies as well to any suspense that might be attached to the result of the California presidential primary today.

Primary elections, held in several states in U.S. presidential election years, give those seeking their party's nomination a chance to test their popular strength. The actual candidate is chosen at a party nominating convention later in the year. Humphrey, however, announced his candidacy too late to enter any of the primaries.

McCarthy from Minnesota and Kennedy of New York spoke their pieces Saturday night to an estimated 25,000-30,000 Americans or roughly one-third of the potential voters in the Nov. 5 presidential and congressional elections.

They did not, as more than one commentator put it, lay a glove on one another. Supporters of each challenger to the Democratic party hierarchy professed to be pleased.

Both obviously were catering to a California electorate where foreigners make up 25 per cent of the population and former Canadians totalling 332,655 are second only to those of Mexican descent totalling 695,643.

Senator Kennedy is expected to win, perhaps by a hefty margin.

But does it really matter? At this stage, many observers believe Vice-President Humphrey, who has been tireless in stalking the political camps in the hinterlands where no primaries are held, has the Democratic convention in Chicago in August all locked up.

He would need 1,312 delegate votes on the first ballot to win and he may already have them.

There are unknowns down the road such as the intensity of race violence through the summer or the course of the war. These are imperious factors that might alter the picture.

Even so, the vice-president is judged the best political speaker in the U.S. at the senior level and the one-time happy warrior who still espouses what he calls the politics of joy has a lot of old friends and new converts who prefer him to either Kennedy or McCarthy.

Burnaby Widow

Two Boys Hunted In Murder

BURNABY (CP)—Police said Monday they were seeking two teen-aged boys—runaways from a foster home—in the murder of a 73-year-old widow in this Vancouver suburb.

Pearl Susan Graham, savagely beaten and stabbed six times in her neck, was found in her nightclothes on the floor of her home Sunday morning.

A church donation envelope was on the floor beside her body. It was ripped open and empty. There was no sign of the $50 pension allowance she had cashed Friday.

FOUND BY FRIENDS

Mrs. Graham's body was found by friends who called to drive her to church.

Police said today two boys aged 14 and 15 were being sought. A spokesman said they ran away from a foster home an hour before the widow was killed.

Mrs. Graham was beaten on the head with a soft drink bottle that was left shattered on the floor of her stucco bungalow, police said.

NO NOISE HEARD

Residents nearby said they heard no disturbance during the night. Mrs. Graham was believed killed between 3 a.m. and 4 a.m., said police.

No knife was found in the house. Police said entry was apparently gained through a side window.

"She was a very nice woman," said Mrs. Bruce Stretch, wife of a nephew. "I can't think who would do something like this to such a nice old lady."

heir was charged with kidnapping Monday after police said he went to his sister's Antebellum home and held her hostage for six hours before surrendering without a struggle.

When W. T. Hutchens walked out of the home, he handed over $158,000 in cash he had demanded as a ransom.

Hutchens, 47, was booked into jail on a kidnapping charge. Alabama statute defines kidnapping as holding another person against their will, as well as an actual abduction.

WAITED OVERNIGHT

Officers said Hutchens and his sister, Dr. Eljoge Hutchens, had been quarreling over the disposition of an inheritance from their father's estate. Dr. Hutchens, a professor of English at the University of Alabama, was executrix of the estate.

Police said Hutchens apparently waited in a small room over a garage all night Sunday, then entered the house about 8 a.m.

Hutchens was carrying a rifle and pistol, police said.

Officers said he forced his sister into a downstairs bedroom and demanded $158,000 in cash.

A maid in the house heard the angry exchange of words between the two and called police, according to investigators.

Police said Hutchens' H. and

H. Walgreen Drug Co. had gone into bankruptcy and he was due in court Monday afternoon for a hearing on that matter.

When police were called by the maid, they quickly surrounded the house and warned Hutchens to turn his sister loose.

But the woman told officers to allow her to give Hutchens the money he was asking.

LARGE SUM

A Birmingham attorney, V. M. Zeidman, was called and drove 100 miles to meet police at a Huntsville bank to put in motion the machinery needed to withdraw such a large sum of money.

The money was placed in a white canvas bag and taken back to the mansion where officers passed it into the room where Hutchens held his sister captive.

Within minutes, Hutchens laid his weapons down in the room and walked out of the house carrying the money-filled bag. He offered no resistance when police placed him under arrest.

Hopes Fading

Inquiry Set Up For Scorpion

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The U.S. Navy said Monday night a court of inquiry will investigate the disappearance of the nuclear submarine Scorpion as the search for the missing craft entered the second week with fading hope of finding the 99-man crew alive.

The court will convene Wednesday to "inquire into all the facts and circumstances connected with the disappearance of the Scorpion" and submit "findings of fact, opinions, and recommendations," said Adm. E. P. Holmes, fleet commander-in-chief.

Meanwhile, the navy flew sophisticated underwater gear to salvage ships near the Azores in an effort to locate the missing attack sub.

Vice-Adm. Bernard Austin will head the seven-man court. Austin served as president of a court which investigated the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher in 1963.

A miniature four-man submarine and a verticle cable elevator for use by divers who work in deep-sea capsules were flown, along with other equipment, to the salvage ships Preserver and Hoist.

But this equipment would be useless until the search, ranging over 300,000 square miles of the Atlantic, narrows to a specific location.

"We've found a lot of fishing buoys, a lot of boxes, a lot of lumber," a submarine officer said. "Nothing we have found to date equates to submarine origin."

Mayor Urges Service Talks

EDMONTON (CP) — Mayor Vincent Dantzer, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said Monday he hoped all levels of government could meet soon to set priorities for providing municipal services Canadians want.

The Edmonton mayor told a news conference at the federation's annual convention that governments must ask themselves what services citizens want, how much money is available to provide such services and then establish priorities.

He said he figured housing, education and poverty would head the list of priorities to be tackled as joint ventures by federal, provincial and local governments.

ALL LEVELS

All levels of government had recognized that everything cannot be done simultaneously so the need was to get together and establish priorities "realistically and intelligently."

He said he hoped that one day the federation would come up with a report on municipal financing that would have the same weight as a report from the Economic Council of Canada.

In a convention sidelight, a recommendation to the delegates by a special technical committee calls on senior governments to pay for education, health and welfare from sources other than property taxation.

BASIC FACTS

The committee report to be presented at the federation's annual convention Wednesday, says investment in education is a basic component of our economic and social development, and that health and welfare are basically national in character. The report praises a residential property tax reduction bill, now being studied by the Ontario government. The bill, expected to receive close scrutiny at the CFMM meeting, would grant home-owners a basic shelter exemption of $2,000.

Geese Stop Flying, Die

CALGARY (CP) — Wildlife officials are still searching for the bodies of two of eight Canada geese which mysteriously fell to earth in north-west Calgary Saturday morning.

The six bodies already found have been sent to the provincial veterinary laboratory in Edmonton to determine the cause of death.

Chuck Gordon, district wildlife officer, warned residents not to handle the two other dead geese if they find the bodies but to get in touch with his department.

William Holmberg said he was working in his garden early Saturday when he saw a flock of about 20 Canada geese flying overhead. He said eight members of the flock "suddenly stopped flapping their wings and fell to earth."

Gary Aller said two of the birds landed in his yard, a third hit the door of a nearby bungalow, a fourth smashed into a vacant house and two others landed on the street.

Darwin Cronkhite, pollution chairman of the Alberta Fish and Game Association, offered two explanations for the incident. He said it is possible the birds ate poisoned food or were victims of some type of air pollution.

B.C. Link to South Closer Than Federal

British Columbians don't always see the advantages of union with the rest of Canada and their loyalties are tied more closely to the Pacific Northwest than to the other provinces, 300 real estate men were told Monday.

Speaking to the Real Estate Institute of B.C., Dr. Geoffrey C. Andrew, executive director of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, said this province had a duty to the nation, to keep reminding Canada that she was a Pacific power as well as an Atlantic community and had objectives and responsibilities to Asia as well as Europe.

Dr. Andrew made an assessment of the five regions of Canada. The Maritimes were suffering from a feeling of deprivation arising from the fact that they did not have vast tracts of land and natural resources, he said.

Quebec was trying to get rid of the habitant image, a subsistence-level farming outlook, and attempting to compete industrially with Ontario while retaining its language and culture.

Ontario, the English-speaking Protestant stronghold of the country, was highly industrialized and had earned the animosity of the rest of the country by the fact that its industries were protected by tariffs to the possible detriment of the rest of the country.

ated on a rural wheat economy and here, too, there was conflict with Ontario, the speaker said. Dr. Andrew said that the nation, whether it like it or not, was part of the North American civilization and the only way it could significantly contribute to that civilization was on a bicultural and bilingual basis.

LOAN SURTAX
Ronald Sanderson, president of the 20,000-member Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards, called for a special 10 per cent federal surtax to meet the shortage of mortgage money for single-family homes.

He told the convention's Monday sessions in the McPherson Playhouse that the tax would be an addition to regular taxation and would apply to every corporate and individual taxpayer. It would go into a special fund to be administered by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

The Fort Credit, Ont., realtor said there was a reluctance on the part of lending institutions to lend money on homes at all. ONLY HOPE "They would much prefer a $1,000,000 loan on an apartment or office complex to 50 individual $20,000 loans," said Mr. Sanderson.

Direct loans from the government were the only hope for money at a reasonable rate of interest over a 30-year term, the speaker said.

Sooke Indians Lose Fish Appeal

A 19th-century treaty between Sir James Douglas for the Hudson's Bay Company and a Sooke Indian tribe, giving the natives unobstructed hunting and fishing rights on Vancouver Island, was a "farceous arrangement," a British Columbia Supreme Court judge ruled Monday.

Mr. Justice T. W. Brown said the document, no doubt drafted by the fur trading company because the Indian chiefs party to it couldn't write, did not exempt the Indians from later federal fishing regulations.

He dismissed an appeal by three Sooke Indians against their conviction on charges of fishing out of season on the Sooke River, thereby upholding the judgment of a Sooke magistrate, Eugene Murphy, who fined the trio a dollar each for being in possession of fish at a time when fishing on the Sooke River was prohibited under the federal Fisheries Act.

Charged were James Cooper, Leonard George and Norman George.

Defence counsel Rodney Bevan argued the 1850 treaty entered into by Sir James, then chief factor for the HBC on Vancouver Island, and the natives gave the company extensive lands in exchange for $150 and hunting and fishing over unoccupied lands "as formerly."

He said this was lawful excuse for the men having fish in their possession.

U.S. Cutting Tailpipe Pollution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. government moved Monday to tighten air pollution standards for 1970 model cars, including one standard to cut tailpipe emissions by 30 per cent.

"These new limitations on motor vehicle pollution bring the nation another step closer to our goal of effective control of this major source of air pollution," health, education and welfare secretary Wilbur Cohen said.

Brewer's Refund Bid Against B.C. Policy

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson has informed Prince George brewer Ben Ginter that it is against government policy to permit refunds on the price of canned beer.

Mr. Ginter, protesting a government price increase to $2.73 a dozen for his canned beer, has challenged the government to show him where in the Liquor Control Act refunds are outlawed.

He sent a wire to Mr. Peterson last week asking an answer to his question and the attorney-general disclosed Monday that he replied, also by wire, last Friday.

The appointment of Peter J. Mr. Finch was previously Managing Director. At the same meeting, attended by Lord and Lady Normanby, the Board approved a $7 million expenditure for expansion and development of the companies' properties in British Columbia.

Earlier, an LCB spokesman said Mr. Ginter should have known that the LCB is opposed to any form of gimmickry in liquor sales.

Mr. Ginter said he doesn't need the price increase ordered by the government May 6 on his canned beer. He wants to give the estimated $5,000 extra it has brought in to charity and he is trying to find a way to put a 10-cent refund for the customer in each carton of beer he sells.

ISSUE OF $500,000,000 (OR THEREABOUTS) NON-CALLABLE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA BONDS

DATED JUNE 15, 1968

Bank of Canada is authorized by the Minister of Finance to receive subscriptions for a loan of $500,000,000 or thereabouts, to be issued for cash as follows:

—1 year 1 month 6 1/2% bonds due July 1, 1969

Issue price: 99.75%

Yielding about 7.00% to maturity

Interest payable July 1 and January 1
One half month's interest payable July 1, 1968
Denominations: $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000

—2 year 3 1/2 month 7% Bonds due October 1, 1970

Issue price: 99.75%

Yielding about 7.11% to maturity

Interest payable October 1 and April 1
Three and one half months' interest payable October 1, 1968
Denominations: $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000

—6 year 7% bonds due June 15, 1974

Issue price: 98.75%

Yielding about 7.26% to maturity

Interest payable December 15 and June 15
(Under certain conditions monthly interest payments may be arranged)
Denominations: $1,000, $5,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000

The Minister of Finance reserves the right to accept or reject in whole or in part any subscription for cash and to allot a total of $500,000,000 plus or minus up to 10%.

Bank of Canada has agreed to acquire for cash a minimum of $140,000,000 of the new Bonds, open as to maturity.

Proceeds of the cash offering will be used to redeem $284,581,000 of Government of Canada 2 1/2% bonds due June 15, 1968 and $135,000,000 of Government of Canada 4 1/2% bonds due June 15, 1968 and for general purposes of the Government of Canada.

In addition, Bank of Canada has agreed to acquire a further $75,000,000 of the new 7% bonds due June 15, 1974 in exchange for $75,000,000 of Government of Canada bonds due October 1 and December 15, 1968 and Government of Canada Treasury Bills due November 29, 1968.

The new Bonds will be dated June 15, 1968 and will bear interest from that date. Principal and interest are payable in lawful money of Canada. Principal is payable at any Agency of Bank of Canada. Interest is payable at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank without charge. Definitive bonds will be available on June 17, 1968 (without payment of accrued interest) and thereafter, in bearer form with coupons attached and fully registered form with interest payable by cheque. Bonds in these forms will be in the same denominations and fully interchangeable as to denominations and/or form without charge (subject to Government transfer requirements where applicable).

In place of semi-annual payment of interest, holders of fully registered 7% Bonds due June 15, 1974 in the amount of $25,000 par value or more may at their option make arrangements to receive interest calculated on an equivalent basis and payable by cheque on the 15th day of each month to maturity. Since recipients of monthly interest obtain their interest earlier than recipients of semi-annual interest, in any one year on a holding of $25,000 the amount of interest paid on the monthly basis will be $1,725 compared with $1,750 on the semi-annual basis.

The new Bonds are authorized pursuant to an Act of the Parliament of Canada and both principal and interest are a charge on the Consolidated Revenue Fund of Canada.

Subscriptions, subject to allotment, may be made to Bank of Canada, Ottawa, through any investment dealer eligible to act as a primary distributor or through any bank in Canada.

Coin Switch Aid Favored

OTTAWA (CP)—The government will recommend to Parliament that vending machine operators receive partial compensation for conversion of their equipment to accept new pure nickel coins.

The finance department made the announcement Monday in a press release that also said the Royal Canadian Mint will start to issue the new coins in early August.

Parliament approved the switch to nickel from silver-alloy earlier this year.

The change does not affect the bronze one-cent coin and nickel five-cent coin. Current coin designs will remain unchanged.

The release noted that Finance Minister Benson had received representations from the automatic vending industry seeking compensation for part of the industry's cost of changes necessitated by the coin change.

The industry dispensed about $150,000,000 worth of cigarettes, food and beverages in 1966.

DEGREE UNKNOWN

A finance department spokesman said it has not been determined what degree of compensation the government will recommend for vendors.

The coin change follows an increasing shortage of silver and the high cost of that metal. The government's first move last year was to cut the amount of silver in 10- and 25-cent coins to 50 per cent. The other metal used was copper.

This was an interim measure to allow for the vending machine conversion. The pure nickel coins will be more durable and attractive, the department said.

Cleanup, Repairs Around B.C.

Rains Cause Three Deaths

VANCOUVER (CP)—A cleanup and repair job that likely will last several days was continuing Monday following weekend rains that flooded some areas and washed out road and rail links.

At least three deaths were blamed on the rains that fell Saturday and Sunday through most of British Columbia.

An elderly California couple was killed Sunday when a tree loosened by a rain-swollen creek crushed their car on a highway near Hope. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Moore Cone were alone in the car.

HIGHWAY DEATH

A rain-slicked highway was blamed for the death of Joseph Soper, 19, of Chilliwack, killed when his car left the Trans-Canada Highway near Langley in the Fraser Valley.

The Kootenay area was hardest hit, however. Heavy rain and a rising runoff spilled creeks, forcing evacuation of 15 to 20 homes in the Nelson area. Sandbagging was carried out by 1,500 volunteers.

Two elementary schools north of Nelson with a combined enrollment of about 400 students were closed for the day because of flooding.

The Canadian Pacific Railway mainline, cut by a washout 20 miles east of Revelstoke, was not expected to be reopened until today. Passengers were being carried around the washout by bus and plane.

At least two weeks are needed before repairs can be made to a Pacific Great Eastern Railway bridge in the Lillooet area, said a railway spokesman.

Fire heavily damaged the structure Saturday.

Numerous provincial roads were cut by water and slides in the Kootenay area. Some were reopened Monday and most were expected to be back in service today.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Poor People Stage Endurance Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Poor People's campaigners staged a battle of endurance with Attorney-General Ramsey Clark Monday, insisting they would remain on the steps of the justice department building until he agreed to meet with a delegation of 100 of them. He refused to do it.

They arrived, 400 strong, at 11 a.m. PDT and stayed into the night, singing, clapping and dancing for hours.

About 100 police, some wearing helmets and carrying three-foot riot nightsticks, stood on the street behind them while inside the halls behind locked doors. FBI agents stood on guard.

The justice department demonstration was led by Mexican-Americans participating in the anti-poverty campaign who had complained earlier its Negro leaders were concentrating too much on the demands of Negroes, overlooking issues important to other minorities.

GRAND JURY

The purpose was to protect the indictment by a grand jury in Los Angeles county on Friday of 13 Mexican-Americans charged with instigating a walk-out of 15,000 high school students in six Los Angeles schools March 5-8. The demonstrators wanted Clark to investigate the case.

Another purpose was to underscore the complaint of Rev. Ralph Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, that the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King by James Earl Ray had King in Memphis, Tenn., on produced no results. Ray has April 4.

Patent Claim Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — Polymer Corp. Ltd. did not infringe a patent for a synthetic rubber product used for floor tiling held by Formica Chemicals Ltd., the Supreme Court of Canada held Monday.

Mr. Justice Roland A. Martland, giving reasons for the unanimous judgment, said the Crown has "an unrestricted right to use a patent."

Use of the patent by Polymer, a Crown corporation, was a use by the Crown since the federal government had incorporated the company to sell and deal in synthetic rubber.

Polymer obtained an assignment of the patent from Formica in 1949 and paid royalties up to $70,000 for it until January, 1953. It claimed the patent did not cover the floor tiling it produced.

But the claim of infringement failed because of the statutory authority to use the patent held by the Canadian government, said Mr. Justice Martland.

Does the Best Man ever win?

Well, your old buddy is getting married and wants you for best man.

Isn't that great?

Sure.

Just one or two little things... like the wedding will be in another city, and you'll have to rent a dinner jacket, and you remember he went all out in the present line when you got married.

Moments like this, you're a wise man if you can take advantage of complete banking service at the Commerce.

One account—your Chequing Account, you use for month-to-month expenses.

And the other—your Savings Account—makes sure you've kept cash on hand.

So go ahead.

Call the airline.

Rent the jacket.

Spring for that nice chunk of Eskimo art.

And have fun at the wedding.

When there's cash on hand at the Commerce, the best man wins.

Get lost!

Take the Super Continental as far as Toronto, Montreal, or the Panorama to Winnipeg.

Getting lost is something we all need, now and then. And going by train is the greatest way to escape. There's something about simply watching the scenery go by, chatting casually with a new acquaintance and taking your time over meals freshly cooked right on the train. Or relaxing in a lounge, sleeping in as late as you like, with no thought of rushing to work, keeping appointments, rushing...rushing...rushing. A trip cleverly disguised as a holiday, is what it's all about.

If it's economy you're after, you can't beat our one way coach fares on White Economy Days, from Vancouver: Winnipeg $30.00. Toronto $50.00.

Sleeping accommodation at reasonable extra cost with complimentary meals. Both trains leave every day. Call your travel agent or CN Passenger Sales Office.

Garage Cash Provides Car Payment

The day's takings from a city gas station were used by an employee as payment on a car, Central Magistrate's Court was told Monday.

Kenneth Moorhouse, also known as Daniel Ryan, 20, of Nanaimo, pleaded guilty to committing theft over $30 and was sentenced to 18 months in jail.

Det. Richard Ward said Moorhouse finished work at about 11 p.m. May 30 at Pay 'N' Save gas station, 212 Esquimalt, and took home with him $356.00.

The following day he traded his 1953 car for a 1956 model and paid the balance of $250 with money he took from the station.

Prosecutor John Macintyre detailed Moorhouse's record, which included convictions for uttering, forgery and false pretences.

Two men were fined $300 each and had their licences suspended when they were found guilty of impaired driving. Robert Esplen of 791 Rivoli was stopped May 24 in the 600 block Admirals after his car was seen to weave.

Harold Skinner of 101 Ontario was involved in a two-car accident May 18 at Bay and Vancouver. He was also fined $25 for not having a driver's licence.

The trial of three young men charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl will be held June 10.

Claude Comer, 19, Ralph Isaacson, 20, and David Weir, 19, all of 740 Kings, pleaded not guilty.

Frank Ellis, no fixed address, was sentenced to concurrent terms of 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to vagrancy and to consuming liquor in a public place.

Frank Granberg, 1579 Hillside, was fined $100 for driving while his licence was suspended. He drove on Douglas Sunday.

A man who drove because he thought his passengers had drunk too much to drive was fined $150 for driving while his licence was suspended. Vernon Waleen, 20, 1415 Harrison, was arrested on Douglas at 3:45 a.m. Saturday.

Two men who fought at Douglas and Belleville early Sunday morning were fined $35 for causing a disturbance. Barry Robbins, 20, 967 Ridge-way, and William Webster, 23, 3448 Salsbury, pleaded guilty.

Court was told that a young woman was accidentally knocked unconscious during the fight.

A minor accident May 25 on Burnside cost Robert Troutman, 3912a Helen, $100 when he pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Anthony Gascoyne, 10440 Princess, and William Wardell, 1943 Bouchier, were each fined $25 for failing to file an income tax return for 1966. Both men pleaded guilty.

Fined for careless driving: James Scott, 860 Wallaston, $35; Arthur Smith, 2747 Graham, $40.

The Stanfield family: Sarah, 26; Mary and Bob Stanfield; Max, 21; Judy, 17; and Miriam, 14. Very much a family man, Bob Stanfield enjoys the privacy of his home and the company of his wife and children. He enjoys hockey and football as a spectator, reads avidly, listens to good music and is a prodigious gardener. "It's good for the soul," he says.

Discover why even the Liberals voted for Stanfield.

Nova Scotia was facing serious problems when Bob Stanfield took over as premier in 1956.

Unemployment was high.

The economy was sagging badly.

The government lacked direction and the people lacked purpose.

In the next few years the quiet man from Truro was to reveal a side of his character few but his closest friends had known.

The old government looked for excuses, claiming the province had no wealth of natural resources enjoyed by other parts of Canada.

"Our greatest wealth," replied Stanfield, "lies in the will of our people to develop their individual resources."

"Let's stop bailing and fix the boat."

"We can do a great deal to help ourselves by believing in ourselves."

It was an appeal the people understood.

This deep and compassionate concern for the welfare of his fellow men guided every principle of his program.

"The aim of my government will be to assist our people to raise their living standards; to acquire a sound education and skills when they're young. To re-train where necessary. To devise a responsible economic policy that will assure the co-operation and participation of the whole community.

"But our policy must recognize and be concerned to make the dollar almighty but our citizens want to make decent incomes as a means of living full and rounded lives."

Stanfield had grasped the real root of the problem.

A man on welfare loses his pride and self respect and without self respect he can never help himself.

Stanfield set out to rekindle that pride. He swept aside the old way of doing things.

With a tireless capacity to listen and consult he drew on all those who could contribute to the making of an effective policy to meet the needs of the people.

An analysis was made of every problem to determine priorities.

Goals were set.

And Stanfield began to emerge as a man in whose presence other men found it easier to arrive at the truth.

"There are no easy answers or quick solutions."

Bob Stanfield has always been concerned with the long range consequences of his decisions. He could not bring himself to spend more money than the people could afford to pay. Higher taxation would only worsen the situation.

Instead, he created a "pay as we go" plan—initiating only the most critical programs while keeping the government out of debt.

Rebuilding the economy began with road building and school construction. Short term, it provided jobs. But long term, the roads would attract tourism and industry while the schools provided his people with new skills.

Thousands of new jobs created.

Next he set up an industry-hunting crown corporation, Industrial Estates Limited, to offer financial assistance to secondary industry which would relocate in Nova Scotia.

It was a resounding success.

Fifty-six firms have come to Nova Scotia creating thousands of new jobs.

With the firms came a flood of investment capital. Hundreds of millions of dollars the province had never seen before. By 1967, Stanfield's administration had established the third highest credit rating in the country exceeded only by Ontario and British Columbia.

Eleven straight years of balanced budgets.

Notwithstanding the expenditures for his new and progressive legislation, Bob Stanfield could at the same time claim eleven straight years of balanced budgets.

With new jobs and new skills, the people experienced a new pride and began to feel a new security.

Welfare cheques were replaced with pay cheques.

Hopeless despair was replaced by new confidence. They were starting to help themselves—to feel those things that really mattered—a new sense of personal growth and self-fulfilment. Stanfield was succeeding.

Stanfield wins 92% of the popular vote.

Bob Stanfield was Premier of Nova Scotia for eleven years. When first elected Premier in 1956, 24 out of 43 seats were Conservative—a bare majority. Gradually, as Stanfield's program evolved, more and more Liberals changed their minds.

They could not deny the man.

In the last election in 1967, 40 out of 46 ridings voted Progressive Conservative.

Last November, the voters of Colchester-Hants federal constituency gave Bob Stanfield 92% of the popular vote. One week later he was sworn in as a Member of Parliament at Ottawa.

"This is too good a country to be lost in anger."

Stirring across the whole of Canada is a growing sense of confidence and trust in the quiet man from Truro.

Trust for a man who appeals to the mind and the deeper and nobler instincts in each of us.

This same sense of trust has inspired and attracted in this election outstanding candidates, creating a Stanfield team unmatched in terms of depth, experience and credibility.

The more you think about it... STANFIELD is the man.

Geoffrion To Coach?

NEW YORK (CP) — The Times says Bernard Geoffrion is expected to be appointed coach of the National Hockey League New York Rangers today.

He would relieve Emile Francis, the team's general manager, of his present additional coaching duties.

The Times says Geoffrion, often sidelined last season by a stomach disorder that has required surgery, is expected to announce his retirement as a player. He has a career total of 393 goals.

Geoffrion, 37, coached Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League for two seasons before coming out of retirement to score 17 goals as a right-wing with the Rangers in the 1966-67 season.

Cardinals Back on Top As Streak Reaches Six

St. Louis Cardinals, who appeared to be running away with the pennant before losing 11 of 13 games to drop all the way to fourth place, are back on top in defence of their National League championship.

Led last night by third baseman Mike Shannon, who drove in three runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly, the Cardinals extended their winning streak to six games by blasting past-Houston Astros, 7-2.

Right-hander Nelson Briles gave up 11 hits but struck out 10 to gain his sixth victory.

Victory boosted the St. Louis lead to a full game. The Cardinals had passed San Francisco Giants Sunday, opening up a half-game lead by taking two games from the New York Mets while the Giants won a single encounter from Los Angeles Dodgers.

Yesterday, the Giants failed to get a run for Ray Sadecki for the third consecutive time and dropped into third place when an unearned run gave Philadelphia Phillies a 4-0 decision.

Taking over from the Giants as runners-up were Atlanta Braves, who scored a 3-2 win over Cincinnati Reds on a two-run homer by Joe Torre and a tie-breaking single by Tito Francona.

POOR OLD BOB

In yesterday's other game, Pittsburgh Pirates continued their sad way, losing, 0-2, to Los Angeles Dodgers to wreck another fine pitching performance by Bob Veale.

Veale, taken out in the eighth inning pinch-hitter, lost the sixth of eight decisions when his teammates couldn't make up for two first-inning runs knocked in by two veterans added to the Los Angeles roster after the season opened—Ken Boyer and Rocky Colavito.

LONGBORG KEEPS

Things tightened up a bit in the American League, where Boston ace Jim Lonborg made his first home appearance of the season to help the Red Sox take a 4-3 win from the leading Detroit Tigers.

Lonborg, recovering from a knee injury suffered while skiing last winter, came to the rescue in the seventh inning to pitch his team out of a bases-loaded jam.

He was sent in with two out and two on base, filled the bags by hitting Bill Freehan but got the dangerous Willie Horton on a forecheck. Lonborg sailed through the eighth inning but left in the ninth with two out and a runner on third base.

Sparky Lyle coming in to retire Jim Northrup.

Dave McNally pitched a five-hitter as Baltimore Orioles moved within two games of the Tigers by defeating California Angels, 2-0.

Also moving up a game were the third-place Cleveland Indians and the fourth-place Minnesota Twins, both one-run winners.

The Indians defeated the Chicago White Sox, 3-2, when Jose Vidal hit a 14th-inning home run to take away a game the White Sox appeared to have won.

Cleveland tied the score in the ninth inning when pinch-hitter Willie Smith hit a two-out single after Vic Davalillo had singled and stolen second base.

Involved almost continuously in one-run decisions, the Twins survived a triple play to nip the New York Yankees, 4-3. It was the 28th one-run decision, the 18th win, for the Twins this season.

Chiefs Grant Rematch To English Champions

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A rematch between Atlanta Chiefs of the North American Soccer League and Manchester City, English League champions, will be played here on June 15.

"We can never run away from a challenge," said Atlanta coach Phil Woosnam.

The rematch comes as the result of a challenge hurled by Joe Mercer, manager of the Manchester team, after the Chiefs, leaders in the Atlantic Division, beat his club, 3-2, on May 27.

Pitchers Skid Around Roadblock on Saliva

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With the spitball under control, the National Baseball League is ready to turn its attention to the greaseball.

San Francisco Giants manager Herman Franks charged Sunday that more and more pitchers are substituting grease for spit in doctoring the baseballs they throw.

He called them "vaseline balls."

Franks said pitchers are plastering down their hair with vaseline or rubbing it on their necks.

"Under the new rules, as long as a pitcher doesn't go to his mouth, he can go anywhere he wants. Anybody can throw it and it only takes a dab. We've seen it all season, but now we're seeing it more and more. I'd say between 20 and 30 are using it."

He said all three Los Angeles pitchers his team faced over the weekend used it, including Don Drysdale.

In Cincinnati, National League president Warren Giles said few pitchers are using it but added that the practice is "very difficult to detect or stop."

"We are considering some means of stopping or reducing it without restricting the normal nervous habits of pitchers like wiping his neck or head."

In Houston, Astros manager Grady Hatton said Drysdale used something on the ball when he beat Astros 5-0 May 26.

"He's using something," Hatton said. "I don't know what it is, whether it's olive oil, vaseline or what."

"But what's the difference? If he can get away with it, more power to him."

Franks called for an investigation.

Shoelace Joe Surprises

VANCOUVER (CP) — It was a day of moderate payoffs Monday at exhibition park, with Shoelace Joe's victory in the fifth race the only real surprise.

The five-year-old gelding came home ahead of favored Wild Child and paid $24.70 for a $2 bet.

The first-race quinnella returned the same sum, $24.70.

Smoke obscures Millstream garbage dumps

If Three Private Dumps Closed

'Up to Waists in Garbage in Month'

Greater Victorians would be up to their waists in garbage within a month if the three privately-owned dumps near here closed, a resident of the Millstream Road district who has been a persistent pollution fighter said Friday night.

Mrs. Marjorie Parker, a member of the Association of Women Electors, also criticized the smoke produced by two dumps in her area.

"This smoke is frequently mistaken for forest fires by motorists driving northward on the Trans-Canada Highway. A directional change in the prevailing wind occasionally carries this same acrid smoke as far as the Goldstream campsite."

GARBAGE DUMPS

Mrs. Parker said Greater Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula could find their garbage dumps, located in provincial territory, closing at any time.

"One dump operator has suggested that his operation will cease within a year," she said, without identifying the site.

"If the other two follow his lead, Greater Victoria, Sidney, Saanich and adjacent provincial territory will be waist deep in their own garbage within a month."

POUL ODORS

The Association of Women Electors last month released a report which condemned the three dumps — Harland Road and the two on Millstream Road — for their foul odors and the general mess they created.

Mrs. Parker suggested the answer to garbage disposal is compacting the waste and covering it with earth. Such a project could be financed on a regional basis.

"If the private dump operators were required to underwrite pollution control, they could very well close their own businesses," she added. "If the three available dumps closed simultaneously it would present an interesting problem."

Youth Centre Living From Hand to Mouth

By SUSAN MAYSE

Popularity indicates that the Broad Street Centre is flourishing, but because of unpaid bills, the latest gathering place for Victoria's youth is facing a bleak future.

Despite a hand-to-mouth way of life, the centre is surviving on the small fees it has imposed on those who use the facilities, and on gifts of money and merchandise.

SUNNY SPOT

A record player is on loan, and rock music usually fills the second-floor rooms. In the sunny front room of the gathering spot, young people sit around tables. Some of them read, some sew, some talk. Most are in their late teens.

"They come in after school, and in the evenings," and Jack Minard, who with his wife Pat and university student Al Alford helped organize the centre.

"About 40 or 50 people usually come in every week day. More come on weekends. We have a coffee house Saturday nights from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m., and it's very popular."

"Quite a lot of parents have come to the centre, just to look around. They've all said they thought it was a good thing," he said.

NEEDS CO-OPERATION

"We're glad to see them. This sort of thing can't be 100 per cent effective unless there's co-operation with the parents."

About 900 people, many of them adults, took a look at the spot at 1406 Broad Street during open house the previous weekend.

There are at least three other centres of the same type operating in and around Victoria.

POETRY READINGS

One of them is the James Bay Hall, sponsored by Christ Church Cathedral. Teenagers can wander in and out, but there are also organized activities, such as sock hops and poetry readings.

The Thomas More centre on

Gordon Head Road has also been in operation for some time as a gathering place, and probably the first of the kind. The Sooke church hall has been open to teen gatherings for the past two years.

PHONE BILL DUE

In spite of their popularity, the Broad Street Centre and others like it are desperately close to financial non-existence. "We have a $50 phone bill due next week," said Mr. Minard, "and paying it is going to be a problem."

THIS IS MIKE MENARD

He read all these texts the first three weeks of the school term with excellent comprehension... and HE STILL HAD TIME FOR SPORTS AND RECREATION

Our graduates can read an average novel in 30 minutes

At the beginning of last term, Mike decided to read all of his class texts to improve his grades and to have more leisure time during the term. No—it wasn't a "Cram" Marathon. Mike still had time for his personal reading and social life. Even in his science texts, Mike rarely falls below 1,000 words per minute. Mike Menard learned this amazing reading method at THE READING DYNAMICS INSTITUTE. (Mike had a first class average on his final exams.)

WHO HAS TAKEN THIS COURSE

Over 400,000 students have benefitted. Graduates represent members of President Kennedy's staff, U.S. senators, Canadian M.P.'s, businessmen, housewives, high school and college students, and busy people from all walks of life... people who like to read but don't have time.

GRADUATES PRAISE TECHNIQUE

HAL SAVAGE—Excellent course! It has not only improved my reading confidence, but also my university marks.

PETER MARSHALL—A completely worthwhile and amazing course. Recommended to all students.

D. F. GRIMSHIRE—Highly recommend this course. Improved my concentration and taught me excellent study techniques. I find I enjoy reading now, and do much more than ever before.

DAVID LLOYD—I find the study reading procedure extremely helpful in university work, excellent course.

VAN ISHKANIAN—Excellent course. An invaluable asset for studies and pleasure reading. Much faster reading—better comprehension.

ART MONAHAN—Great course! Recommended highly. Excellent study procedures—tremendous aid at school.

JERRY WOSK—I recommend this course highly—excellent instruction. I find the new intellectual methods and approaches very worthwhile and enjoyable. I intend to make effective use of them.

TOM BAILEY—I definitely recommend this course. My improved comprehension and speed has given me new interests in reading—excellent program.

D. F. CONROY—The whole idea of dynamic reading is exciting. I study read 5 times faster than I ever did before with greater comprehension and retention. All students should take it.

JAMIE DISHER—Very enjoyable program. It opened new fields of interest to me. I started using my library card.

J. E. GREENE—I definitely recommend this course to students. The techniques for reading different types of material, text and novels, certainly makes everyday reading more interesting and enjoyable.

GREG MASON—I most definitely recommend this program to everyone. Excellent instruction. I found the study methods and recall patterns most helpful for text reading.

DAY CLASSES NOW FORMING

We have realized for some months that we would be forced to form Day Classes in Reading Dynamics, because of requests from prospective students and the heavy enrollment in our Evening Classes. However, we would like a more specific indication of the number of people wanting day-time classes. Please call us to express your interest in this program. You will be notified as soon as classes are formed. FOR INFORMATION: PLEASE CALL 384-8121.

ACHIEVEMENT WARRANTY

We guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student at LEAST 3 times with good comprehension. We will refund the entire tuition to any student who, after completing minimum class and study requirements, does not at least triple his reading efficiency as measured by our beginning and ending tests.

Give the graduate in your family a Reading Dynamics scholarship. Dynamic Reading skills last a lifetime.

For B.C. Strike

Overwhelming Vote Nurse's Forecast

A spokesman for Victoria's registered nurses said Monday she expects they will decide to go on strike in a province-wide vote that will probably be announced later this week.

Arrangements for the vote are being made by the provincial electoral officer. The government-supervised strike vote will take place in 61 B.C. hospitals which employ about 4,100 registered nurses.

The Registered Nurses Association of B.C. applied to the Labor Relations Board for the strike vote.

The nurses last Wednesday rejected by a majority of 81 per

Hees Tells Conservative Rally:

Chatterton Cabinet-Bound

Esquimalt-Saanich's George Chatterton will be a cabinet minister if the Conservatives win the June 25 election, former trade minister George Hees told a rally here Monday night.

He praised Mr. Chatterton's work in veterans' affairs and housing issues before a crowd of about 300 which filled the Fort Street campaign headquarters of Eric Charron, Conservative candidate in Victoria.

"If we ever do — and we are going to — get good housing legislation it's because George Chatterton has made a contribution," said Mr. Hees. "No doubt Mr. Chatterton will be one of the ministers in that government."

The bronzed and greying campaigner, often called the "glamour boy" of the former Conservative government, said Prime Minister Trudeau has been cancelling election meetings across Canada, because he is afraid to explain his policies to the people.

He said Mr. Trudeau, a former law professor, "doesn't know the answers because he hasn't had the training."

"So far, anything he has said, he has later turned around and said the opposite. Trudeau hasn't specified anything. You and I could be going on a four-year blind date."

Big Boom Possible In City Airspace

Things could be booming in Victoria Thursday and Friday, courtesy of Canadian and American military planes.

It would be a matter of sonic booms during a mock air attack, but military sources in Victoria said the possibility is only slight and such booms would not likely be severe if they did materialize.

As a matter of fact, no one knows for sure whether any aircraft will even be over Victoria as Canadian and U.S. military forces intercede and combat a mock air attack.

All that is known is that Strategic Air Command B52 bombers and NORAD fighter aircraft will be cutting through the skies over British Columbia and the Western States. Included will be the 409 all-weather fighter squadron from Comox.

Police Officers Confer Friday

The 12th annual conference of the B.C. Federation of Police Officers will be held Friday and Saturday at the Red Lion Inn. Saanich policemen, hosts for the convention, expect about 40 delegates to attend.

Oak Bay Lowers Tweed

Hovercraft Too Noisy And Too Commercial

The hovercraft may be the newest and fastest form of marine travel, but at the moment it's just too noisy and commercial for the liking of Oak Bay council.

Council decided Monday night to let the federal transport department know it objects to the creation of any hovercraft terminal that might be proposed for Oak Bay.

There was one dissenter, Ald. C. Scott Wallace, who felt council didn't have enough knowledge on which to base an opinion. He also thought economical gain might make any nuisance factor worthwhile.

Oak Bay's fear stems from the announcement last month that Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. of Vancouver plans six Vancouver-to-Victoria trips a day with its 60-mile-an-hour passenger craft.

It was granted a licence May 21, by the transport department and had said earlier it could be in operation within 60 days of receiving a licence.

The company has said it would like to establish a terminal either in Victoria's Inner Harbor or at Oak Bay Marina. The marina would provide more sheltered waters and shorter operating time.

Ald. Wallace wondered if council had any real facts about the hovercraft's supposed noise.

Acting Mayor Frances Elford said it was the same hovercraft used at Expo, and there was no doubt about how noisy that had been.

Among other objections raised by council were claims that a mammoth parking problem would be created at the marina, private fishing and sailing boats would run into interference, and the waterfront would be tainted by the mark of commercialism.

It would have to pass by to get to Victoria, so why shouldn't Oak Bay cash in on any economic gain there might be? he wondered.

Mrs. Elford thought the transport department should be told it would be better to have the hovercraft swing east of Chatham and Discovery Islands. This way, Oak Bay wouldn't be bothered.

Economy Looking Bright

Tourists Throng Robust Victoria

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Tourism and construction—the twin indicators of continuing B.C. prosperity in 1968—hold promise of a bumper year for Greater Victoria, according to a government survey.

Trade and Industry Minister Waldo Skillings, in a regular monthly survey of business highlights released Monday, said overseas restrictions on travel by U.S. citizens is already bringing a tourist bonanza to B.C.

He cited figures for non-resident border crossings from the U.S. which show an 18 per cent increase for the first quarter over the same period in 1967.

GAS UP FIVE PER CENT

Gasoline consumption, regarded as another indicator of tourist activity, is also up five per cent for the same period over last year.

Meanwhile, Mr. Skillings said, the construction industry in both Vancouver and Victoria is enjoying "near boom" conditions.

He said value of building permits issued for the first quarter amounted to nearly $134,000,000, 17.6 per cent higher than the provincial total for the same period last year.

HOUSING STARTS

For the first three months of 1968, the minister said, housing starts were up 62 per cent and housing completions are up 59 per cent. Preliminary statistics for April show an increase of 78 per cent over April, 1967, in housing starts.

Mr. Skillings said the most growth in construction among centres 10,000 population and over was registered in Victoria, Vancouver, Prince George, Kelowna and Penticton.

The greatest gains overall were in apartment construction, he said, where the number of units increased by 300 per cent.

30,000 MORE

In April the provincial labor force reached 774,000, up from 739,000 a year ago.

The minister added: "It may be of interest to note that while unemployment in B.C. amounts to 6.6 per cent, it amounts to 8 per cent in Quebec and 10.2 per cent in the Atlantic provinces."

The first quarter showed gains in most sectors of the provincial economy.

FISHING DROPPED

Logging shows a slight increase while most areas of mineral production showed solid gains. Fish landings for the three-month period, however, dropped by some 51 per cent and the decline was blamed on reduced catches of herring and sole.

In the first two months of 1968 crude oil production jumped 20 per cent and natural gas production was up 10 per cent.

SHARP INCREASE

Lumber production during the first quarter was about three per cent below the same period in 1967 but officials said the settlement of the lengthy Interior lumber dispute was expected to bring a sharp increase.

Community Arts Election Soon

The annual meeting of the Community Arts Council of Greater Victoria will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, June 10, at Dunlop House, 1960 Lansdowne Road.

The council, which has recently appointed Thomas Sherwood executive secretary, will sponsor a benefit performance of "Great Knights of the Theatre" at the McPherson Playhouse, June 18. The performance will supply bursaries for the Summer Workshop Theatre.

Boatman Shaken By Blast

John Reynolds, 1178 Marchants, went to work Monday, a bit shaken but unharmed after a blast from the engine of his boat Watson Isle knocked him flat on his back Sunday during her first run of the season.

Mr. Reynolds, managed to launch his dinghy as the craft was burning to the waterline. Several boats of a large number of vessels sailing off Sidney Island came to his aid, and he was taken from the dinghy within minutes.

Liberal Issues Firm Denial Of Saanichton Farm Claim

The federal agriculture department has "absolutely no intention of closing down the Saanichton experimental farm, Liberal candidate David Anderson said Monday.

He told a meeting at Sidney new greenhouses have recently been built at the station, for research on vegetables.

"Does this indicate that the department intends to close down the station? Certainly not," said Mr. Anderson, who was replying to a claim by NDP candidate Donald Johannessen that the place was nearing the end of its life.

He said Mr. Johannessen probably thought that, because the station was terminating a research project on turf grass, the whole operation was going out of existence.

Turf was a "leisure crop," said Mr. Anderson, and the agriculture department did not have it at the top of its list of priorities.

"A short time ago, one of the scientists carrying out the turf research died and it was decided that, in view of the government's insistence that the civil service not be expanded except in cases of pressing need, not to replace this man."

He said the question of an arboretum, raised by Conservative candidate George C. Atterton, "has absolutely no relationship to the research station's present activities."

An arboretum is planned at Sidney—one of four proposed for the whole of Canada. It has not been planted, however, because of cost.

Problems for Saanich

Hoodlum Beach Parties Anger Area Residents

By NANCY BROWN

Beach hoodlums, the Lord's Day Act, and apartments were among a potpourri of 34 items discussed at Saanich council Monday night.

Discussion of a resolution condemning the avarice of land speculators was tabled because of what Ald. Edith Gunning called "the controversy of the subject."

The effect of the Act, he said, would be to curtail all normal business—groceries, service stations, restaurants, hamburger stands, ice cream and pop stands.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Smith, 5625 Parker, complained of a large number of undesirable frequenting the beach area at night, lighting fires, having beach parties, and smashing bottles.

Saanich police, said the letter, patrol the beach, but don't have enough staff to keep watch. The letter, signed by other residents, suggested closing beaches and parks after dark, or prohibition of beach fires.

Reporting on observance of the Lord's Day Act, Police Chief W. A. Pearson suggested that if any action is to be taken it should be to change the Act.

He said there have been no complaints of infractions received in Saanich.

him if anyone is interested in changing or enforcing the law.

For want of 218 square feet in the right place, council rejected an application to rezone property on the corner of Quadra and Union for medium density apartment use.

The owner of the land, R. Gilmour Construction Ltd., was told earlier that a minimum of 20,000 square feet was needed to build an apartment on the property. The property was 218 feet too small.

Wrong Shape

They were able to buy an additional lot, but the assembled property formed a T shape, with property fronting on Palmer, and this proved unsatisfactory to council.

Public hearings will be held on an application from the planning committee to rezone 30,000 square feet at Quadra and Inverness for medium density apartment use, and an application from Dr. Charles Gregory to rezone property at 4241 Blenkinsop for residential treatment centre use.

Oak Bay Socreds Set Date

Oak Bay Social Crediters next week will nominate a candidate to contest the provincial by-election which is expected in their area this summer.

Their convention, set for 8 p.m. Tuesday, will follow by 2 1/2 weeks the nomination by the Liberals of former reeve Alan Cox.

Social Credit sources said there was at least one prospective candidate, but they were keeping his name a secret for a few days. The meeting will be held in Oak Bay Junior high school.

The by-election, which Premier Bennett has indicated will be held next month, will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Liberal Alan Macfarlane, now a justice of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

Greek Girls Told

Hair Ribbons Must Be Worn

ATHENS (Reuters) — The army-backed Greek government has threatened schoolgirls with arrest if they do not wear hair-ribbons — preferably white, blue or black.

It also said Sunday that schoolboys with long hair would have their heads shaved, said by police.

The circular, issued by Education and Religion Minister Theofylactus Papconstantinou and published in Athens newspapers, said police were ordered to arrest primary or high school students whose appearance or behaviour did not comply with government instructions.

It said girls could not wear mini-skirts, bell-bottom slacks or flat shoes with huge buckles in front.

Boys should not wear multi-colored shirts.

Migrant Mother Lashes Barrier

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

TORONTO (CP)—A pretty Norwegian-born mother said Monday she is "not happy" about raising her two young daughters in Canada.

Solveig Ryall, 38-year-old housewife and part-time photographer who has lived in Paris and London, told the royal commission on the status of women that Canadian females are worse off than any others in the industrialized world.

The traditional North American role of woman as housewife must be abolished and replaced by an equal sharing of husband and wife in breadwinning, homemaking and child-rearing, Mrs. Ryall argued.

This could be done if mothers and fathers worked part-time and spent equal time at home caring for their youngsters.

"With women freed from the sole responsibility of child rearing, they will have time and energy to take full part in the decision-making processes of our institutions," Mrs. Ryall said.

"Then we can finally hope to eliminate the rigid discrimination against women that is so glaring in Canadian society today."

Mr. Ryall, a professor of mathematics at the University of Toronto, said later in an interview he fully supports her brief.

He does dishes and house-keeping tasks, as do many Canadian men, without fear he is harming his masculinity.

Mrs. Ryall said she feels her daughters, aged seven and nine, would get a much more "natural" upbringing in Scandinavia.

In Canada, children are indoctrinated into certain roles according to sex, and girls suffer most from this, she said.

She quoted a recent labor department pamphlet on job opportunities which reads: "If you are a girl, marriage is the career you may have in mind."

The federal government should start a concerted campaign to eliminate this kind of double standard and might begin with a pamphlet reading:

"If you are a girl do not let yourself be cheated like millions of girls before you... develop your individuality."

Mrs. Ryall also suggested that the federal civil service should start addressing all its female employees as Mrs., whether they are married or not.

"On giving their names women are constantly being asked 'Miss or Mrs.?' she said. 'I feel like answering 'It's none of your business.'"

"We are going to have to start from scratch in changing such attitudes so that our small children, boys and girls, can grow up in an entirely different way."

Earlier in the hearing, lawyer Margaret Hyndman said women are often barred from good job opportunities by "hidden barriers existing mainly among men in administrative and executive positions."

She hoped that publicity given the work of the status commission would help break down these barriers, "which have no foundation in our laws."

Mark Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Green, 1869 Leighton Road, who will mark their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday, were honored by their many friends at an "at home" Sunday afternoon and evening. Residents of Victoria for the past 50 years, Mr. and Mrs. Green were married in Leatherhead, Surrey, England, on June 5, 1918, in St. Mary's Parish Church.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My fiancé and I have been planning our wedding for several months. We wanted it to be in June but my mother persuaded us to wait until July and be married on her 25th wedding anniversary. It sounded like a good idea at the time, but now I'm not so sure.

Last week my mother announced that she has tried on her wedding gown and it still fits perfectly. She wants to wear the gown to my wedding and make it a double ceremony, with her and Dad repeating the vows. I didn't know what to make of it, but Mother assured me that many couples "remarry" for sentimental reasons and she thinks it would be a truly moving experience for us all. Dad was not very pleased but usually he goes along with what Mom wants. My fiancé doesn't like the idea and has said so. When I told Mother, she accused me of being selfish and not wanting to share the spotlight. If I am wrong please tell me and I will try to make my fiancé see it that way. Right now I am so heartsick I'm ready to call off the wedding and elope. — CONFUSED GIRL.

Dear Girl: A bride should not have to share the spotlight with anyone. Discuss this problem with your clergyman and ask him to speak to your mother. If your mother wants to "remarry" your father for sentimental reasons, she should do it on her own time and not horn in on your day.

Superstition and Marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I lost my husband two years ago and have been seeing a very interesting man who joined the firm where I am a private secretary. Aaron is excellent company, shares my interests and we are of the same religion. He never married and seems to enjoy my two teen-age children a great deal. Aaron has asked me to marry him but something is holding me back. He seems to be terribly hung up on superstition. He has turned around in the middle of the block to prevent a black cat from crossing his path. He will walk across a street to avoid stepping under a ladder. When he drops the salt and pepper shaker, he always tosses it over his left shoulder. Recently he passed up a choice apartment because it was on the 13th floor.

Last night we were walking down the street and Aaron was careful not to step on a crack because it would "break his mother's back." His mother died five years ago. Do you think this indicates an unstable mind or is it just ignorance? — GERALDINE OF BILLINGS.

Dear Geraldine: Superstition bears no relation to stability or intelligence. From your description he sounds like a promising prospect. Knock on wood.

Confidential to Taken Advantage Of Once Too Often: Who raised these vegetables? Your children are disgustingly selfish and lazy because they have never had to accept any responsibility. Your husband is a pretty good learner, too. So long as you are willing to carry the whole load for these slobos they will be happy to let you do it.

Charlotte Complains

Kissing Candidates Unfair to Fair Sex

OTTAWA (CP) — The city's ebullient former mayor, 72-year-old Charlotte Whitton, said Monday that women face an unfair situation when it comes to political warfare because "there's a different code... for men and women."

Commenting following publication of numerous news photographs and stories of leading male contenders in the June 25 election race kissing pretty young women, Miss Whitton said with a chuckle: "What would be said if Judy LaMarsh or Pauline Jewett whirled down in a plane and fell on the necks of every teenage boy and kissed him and sent him away sighing and kissed every mini-male."

"What would the public say? Wouldn't there be an uproar?" Miss Marsh is the former secretary of state and Liberal MP for Niagara Falls. Miss Jewett is of the Institute of Canadian Studies at Carleton University and former Liberal MP for Northumberland. Neither is running in the June 25, election.

Parents Fail to Agree On 'Debt' of Children

By NANCY BROWN

The contention that a child owes his parents nothing met sharply divided reaction during a discussion of pressures on parents in the James Bay dialogue centre.

Cndr. Ron Dyson said children do have a debt to parents.

"They owe something in return for the love, protection and shielding they get from the harm they could be exposed to," he said.

"This goes as far as showing respect and a sense of feeling towards parents. It is regrettable to suggest that they owe nothing."

On the opposite side, Mrs. Enid Webster said adults owe children a lot: "It's marvelous to have young people around."

"I think the word owe in family life is obnoxious," she said.

"Parents don't give anything that should be returned. Anything they do is because they love the child, or it isn't worth doing."

"My children owe me nothing," said the grandmother and kindergarten teacher.

"I feel their natural reaction to my love for them would be to love me, but if they reject me that is their privilege."

Another parent said parents don't deprive themselves for their children — because of love they try to give their children advantages for life.

"If they talk about slaving and depriving, it's no wonder the children grow up to say, 'I owe you nothing.'"

Rev. Walter Donald of Christ Church Cathedral said he doesn't feel his children even owe him obedience.

"They will obey me if what I put forward is reasonable. If it isn't then it is my fault."

"I hope my children love me, and that we will have a real respect and trust when they grow up," he added.

Mrs. Peggy Dyson said young people exert pressure on parents so that they can conform with other children.

"I was never a teenager," she said. "I was a child and then I was a young woman. It's time we got away from worrying about teenagers."

"I don't see why I should submerge my personality in theirs."

She contended that there is nothing wrong with today's children.

"Well-intentioned adults try to treat children as adults. That's where we run into trouble," she said.

"They sit around and decide to go here, there, and everywhere."

"When parents object, or refuse to let a child go, then they don't have the support of other adults."

She said she feels sorry for children, who are under pressures and pulled four of five different ways by as many groups of well-intentioned adults.

Mrs. Dyson said the youth group that sponsored the panel discussion was a case in point.

"We felt it started as a good discussion group, but then they sat around and discussed a trip to Camp Columbia."

"The children go home and say they are going."

"Parents have to make a snap decision on whether the child should go."

"If we say yes we are popular, but there may be school work or other obligations for children."

"If we say no there is an

Mrs. Enid Webster

Rev. Walter Donald

emotional outburst, because everyone else is going."

Mr. Dyson said all responsibility for a child's activities rests with the parents until he is 21.

"The legal, moral and economic responsibility lies with the parent," he said.

"I believe parents must be

Margaret Merrill advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

the judge in any given situation.

"It isn't a question of parents adjusting to a new teenage code, it's a question of what's good for them."

Parents, commented Mrs. Dyson, have a right to say no without giving reasons.

"We have lived longer than our children, and we know what is best."

Mr. Dyson felt young people are exposed to too many visions of material goods.

Mrs. Dyson contended that there are too many things distracting young people from their education, which parents should stop.

"If there's need to study, a child shouldn't be going out to a mid-week group."

She was asked if she believes a teenager will study because he is told to, "or do you think he will just go to his room and play records or read?"

She said a child is more likely to study at home than out.

The youth group, she felt, is a good thing, but she is in conflict because of things they all want to do.

"I want my next 10 years to be happy," she said.

"I don't want an emotional outburst everytime I say no, if I feel that going out in the middle of the week is wrong."

"These young people have an awful lot of pleasure as it is. They should forego something, when an adult tells them to, because we know how important education is."

Another parent felt that a parent has taught a child all that is possible by the time he is 13 or 14.

"If he has been well taught you can let him go and he won't go far wrong," she said.

"He should be able to understand reasonable advice and accept it; he should know right from wrong and have a sense of responsibility."

"If he doesn't have it by then, it's too late," she said.

Mr. Dyson said many adults lack responsibility and judgment. Children are more likely to lack them and need to be told what to do.

Mrs. Lona O' Gorman differed.

"Every family has some regulations, but I don't think an authoritarian home, with parents making decisions without offering reasons, produces responsible adults.

"You can make children perform, but is this what we are aiming at?"

"How are they going to behave when they have no one around to tell them how to perform?"

Mr. Dyson said there is a problem with teenagers because of too much publicity to the group, which is over-exposed to unscrupulous advertising.

There is advertising about cigarettes, drink, clothes and records, and young people have a disproportionate amount of money for the responsibility they carry.

The discussion will continue Saturday, with young people talking — adults listening.

Ship Christened From Launch

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The new Argentine freighter Santa Cruz slipped prematurely down the ways before Mrs. Juan Carlos Onganía could slip the traditional smack with a champagne bottle. The president's wife hopped aboard a launch and finished off the christening in the harbor.

Put top level talks behind closed doors for $1.25

To a teenager every phone conversation is of vital importance — but these top level talks can often conflict with Dad's rights to a little peace and relaxation. So why not put such talks where they belong, behind closed doors? For as little as $1.25* per month you can add an extension phone in your teenager's bedroom and live in peace ever afterwards! To get one, just call your local B.C. TEL Business Office — or visit the special display there and see the various models for yourself. If moving into a new home, ask the telephone man to put in one or more extensions with your master phone (this saves an extra installation charge later).

*Additional charges for color and special models.

Youth's Body Found

DUNCAN. — RCMP have identified the body pulled from the Cowichan River on Saturday as that of 18-year-old William Peterson of 3190 Glen Lake Road, Victoria.

Mr. Peterson had been missing since an Easter weekend canoe trip which also claimed the life of his father, John S. Peterson.

They were on a trip from Skutumpah on the river down to Cowichan Bay.

THREE MONTHS
Mr. Peterson, 42, was assistant superintendent of Western Lumber Carriers in Victoria. His son was a Belmont High School student.

They owned the canoe — a 14-foot glass fibre model — for about three months and were familiar with its operation, according to family and friends.

They were both keen fishermen.

Fishermen Search Called Off

TAHSE — RCMP Sunday called off the search for fishermen Victor Olson, 66, of Kootenai and Alan Greenfield, 34, of Victoria, who have been missing for more than a week. Their wrecked fishboat Lady K was found beached near here.

Boy Missing

PORT ALICE — A four-day search for three-year-old Michael Lawrence has been called off, RCMP said Monday. Police believe the boy fell into Neversink Inlet, on which Port Alice is located.

Two Saved From Lake

LAKE COWICHAN — Two Victoria people, one of whom almost drowned, were rescued from Cowichan Lake on Sunday.

Kathleen and Richard Larch, were fishing near the Kiwanis Lakeview Park. Mrs. Larch caught a fish, and in her excitement she stood up and tipped the small boat, and she and her husband fell into the cold water.

Mr. Larch managed to keep his wife's head above water and drag her to shore, about 250 feet away.

As Mr. Larch struggled onto the beach two young Victoria men went to help.

One jumped into the water, swam out to the boat and brought it into shore.

The two are members of Victoria Ball Club who were camping at Lakeview Park for the weekend.

Mrs. Larch was in extreme shock and she and her husband were taken to Castaway Resort where they were staying.

Mrs. Larch was wrapped in blankets and given oxygen by Gerry Salmon, safety director for Gordon River Logging Camp of Western Forest Industries.

The couple were driven to a doctor in Mr. Salmon's emergency truck.

Mr. Salmon said Mr. and Mrs. Larch were wearing Mexican ponchos which collected air and helped to keep them afloat.

He said there were small life-jackets in the boat but the couple was not wearing them. Mr. Larch apparently grabbed one of the jackets as the boat tipped over.

Peterson's Last Duty

New School Goes Mod

GOLD RIVER — For his last duty as education minister, Leslie Peterson opened $1,282,000 ultra-modern secondary school here Saturday.

There are about 85 students enrolled at the school which has a teaching staff of 12.

"This school has been built to meet the needs of the future in an adequate, in fact, the best possible fashion," said E. R. Hewson, school board secretary-treasurer.

design of the school was also praised by T. G. Ellwood, principal and the trustees, headed by chairman Aksel Christensen.

The school, situated on eight acres of land close to the centre of town and abutting a park site and river, contains about 40,000 square feet of space.

It contains 15 teaching areas, a large interior foyer indirectly lighted, spacious office and storage space, and wide hallways. There is also a gymnasium with stage, show-ers and changing rooms, capable of holding some 600 spectators. It is linked to the school by a covered walkway.

A full junior secondary education program is offered with 54 courses including options in industrial training, modern languages, home economics and music.

The school was designed by the architectural firm of McCarter, Neirne and Partners.

'We Don't Need Them'

Canadian N-Arms Rejected by Brock

LADYSMITH — Rear-Admiral (retired) J. Jeffery Brock does not think Canada should concentrate on nuclear weapons.

"Canada has no need for nuclear weapons now or in the foreseeable future," said Adm. Brock who is Conservative candidate for Nanaimo-

Cowichan-The Islands riding. He made the comment after talking to about 40 workers at Ladysmith Forest Products sawmill Monday.

He said: "I believe it is urgent to undertake a complete re-examination of the nature of our contribution to NATO with the view of

Barnett Urges

'Let's Guard Resources'

PORT ALBERNI — The importance of conservation was stressed by Tom Barnett, NDP candidate for the Comox-Alberni riding, after he returned from a north island tour.

"The three R's of conservation — resources and regulation and research are becoming as important as the three R's of the little red school house days," he said.

In the present complex and rapidly growing world, resources must be regarded as a heritage held in trust not only for this generation, but for generations to come, he said.

Regulation under federal, provincial and municipal law is necessary, he said, to prevent the wanton, and the ignorant from devastating the country's resource heritage.

"Research is the accelerator which could enable better beneficial use of resources to be made without the by-products of waste and devastating pollution."

"There has been much talk in recent years in pointing to the rich forest producing areas of Comox-Alberni about greater utilization of the forest crop. Despite this talk in our pulp and paper industry, the fact is that we continue to pour something like 50 per cent of the wood down the sewer," he asserted.

He said industry continues to use only the cellulose fibre while continuing to contaminate waters with lignins and added chemicals.

Mr. Barnett said that if he returns to Ottawa, he will continue to press for massive programs of pollution-control under the auspices of the federal government.

Mosher Announces Communist Contest

PORT ALBERNI — School trustee Mark Mosher has announced that he will run in the Comox-Alberni constituency as a Communist candidate.

Mr. Mosher, 32, said: "I am concerned that the real issues are not being debated. In place of debate there are only vague platitudes, mingled with Madison Avenue-type images, created to gloss over issues that should be seriously debated."

"No program, prepared by any of the parties can succeed without a new approach to foreign policy, to peace and armaments, to taxation structures and economic policies. These points are largely contingent upon a new constitution and a new look at confederation, with equal status for Quebec. Precious little is being said by any of the other parties on these issues."

"I hope to be able to help correct this situation in our riding. Federal politics is more than a new wharf, or an airstrip, important as these things are."

"We believe that a large vote for the Communist candidate in Comox-Alberni is the most meaningful vote that can be recorded in this election," Mr. Mosher added.

Mr. Mosher has been a member of the Communist party since 1947.

Nanaimo Meeting

Indians Invite All Parties

QUALICUM BAY — Indian voters from all parts of Vancouver Island will attend an all-candidate meeting in Nanaimo Sunday.

The meeting, which will be held in the Credit Union Hall, is being organized by the Southern Vancouver Island Tribal Federation.

It will deal with views of the parties policies on Indian affairs for the next 100 years.

Mrs. Diane Recalma of Qualicum Bay said an attempt was being made to have two candidates from the Liberal, Conservative, NDP and Social Credit parties at the meeting.

The board of any tender will not necessarily be shared.

G. F. SHARPE, City Purchasing Agent, Victoria, B.C., May 28, 1968.

Loaded Gas Tank Drops in Street

NANAIMO — A tanker lost its load of gasoline Monday afternoon at the Nicol Street and Esplanade intersection.

A crane was obtained to lift the container back onto the tractor, but because there were fears of further damage to the tank, and of striking sparks, the method was abandoned.

Two tank lifts from Johnston Terminals were then used. Nanaimo fire department flooded the streets with water to wash away the gasoline.

Seattle Sloop Champion By Correction

By DON COLLINS

Seattle skipper John Baillargeon is continuing to show the sailing world it's possible to play follow-the-leader and go home a champion.

For the second time in three years, Sunday, he plucked victory from out of the blue in the Swiftsure race.

This time his 31-foot-sloop Mistral ended the tough 125-mile grind well back of Don Nielsen's 40-foot Moonglow from Tacoma. But Moonglow, which headed the 90-boat fleet, lost out to Mistral on corrected time—a special system of handicapping.

Two years ago Mr. Baillargeon sailed off the over-all trophy after the Vancouver boat.

Vancouver Challenger

The exception was a 50-foot Vancouver sloop named Mary Bower, which had clung doggedly to the lead from shortly after the start of the race at 9:30 a.m. Saturday until some time on the homeward lap.

With John Long of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club guiding her, the Mary Bower was the first to round the half-way lightship mark late Saturday night, shrouded in rain and fog.

But she lost wind on the homeward journey and was passed by the main contenders.

The Mary Bower, however, gets the RCN Trophy as first boat around the mark.

Don Nielsen's proud arrival back in Victoria Sunday was

Seven Among First 10

Seven Canadian boats were among the first 10 finishers in the Juan de Fuca race, but the winner on corrected time was Walter Hermann's 31-foot Seattle sloop Lara. Second was Vancouver skipper John Grieve in Windsong VI.

Damage High On Malahat

Damage was estimated at $1,000 in a four-car collision at noon Sunday on the Malahat near the Dutch Latch. No one was injured.

Colwood RCMP said a car driven south on the Malahat by Brantley Holt of Athena, Ore., was in collision with a northbound car driven by William Thomson, 1121 Catherine.

A northbound car driven by Prewitt Gregory of North Vancouver stopped to avoid the other two cars and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Richard Stewart, 5308 Westholme.

Fig Leaf Episode Test for Drivers

AMERSHAM, England (Reuters) — Blonde Bobbie Wolsey, 22, went hitch-hiking in the nude here — to test drivers' reactions.

They reacted, but with true British calm. One even asked for her autograph.

She stopped 20 motorists, stepping out of bushes on a country lane, naked except for a pair of shoes, a hat and a handbag.

One was Ron Hove, 27, who said later:

"This cracking bird without a stitch on asked me the way to the nearest phonebox. I was dumfounded. I told her and drove on."

Tractor driver Barry Main said, "I ask you, a beautiful blonde, starkers. My wife wouldn't believe it, said I'd got a touch of the sun."

Bobbie, who had a microphone concealed in the handbag, was testing motorists' reactions for a candid camera-style film called The Fig Leaf.

Young Virtuoso Huge Success

By BERT BINNY

The parade of young Victoria Conservatory musicians continued Sunday afternoon at the McPherson Playhouse.

But this time the entire program was undertaken and executed with huge success by just one performer, pianist Camille Inkman.

MOODS, VALUES

The audience, larger than usual at affairs of this nature, received 17-year-old Miss Ink-man enthusiastically, insistently recalling her for bows and encores.

Miss Inkman offered compositions from the works of six composers on Sunday afternoon and, throughout, displayed her quite exceptional dynamic finesse, her sensitivity and her sincere understanding of moods and values.

Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Ravel and Liszt were represented, along with two studies by Francois Morel.

FALSE ALARMS

These last are like false fire alarms, with lots of activity, excitement, hurrying and scurrying — but no fire. However, they may not be entirely wanton expenditure of fine talent on mere exercises in noisy dissonance; they gave Miss Inkman golden opportunity to flex her considerable musical muscle and they provided variety to the program.

Next Sunday's program includes items for violin, cello, viola, flute, clarinet, piano, speech arts, classical guitar and voice.

Chess Game Won On Radio

By RAY KERR

Newly-crowned Vancouver Island chess king and two colleagues wrote another first in the annals of Pacific Northwest chess history over the weekend.

Duncan Suttles, who won the Island crown in Nanaimo two weeks ago, backed up by Tim Anderson and Robert Zuk, led Vancouver to a 2½-½ victory against Seattle.

The unusual aspect of the inter-city match was that it was held by radio — the first time this was done in the Pacific Northwest.

The Vancouver end was handled by Robert Eldridge, a Lower Mainland chess official, while Jack Smith of Seattle did the ham radio chores on the U.S. side.

On the first board, Suttles defeated former Washington champion Viktor Pupov. Anderson and former Washington junior king Chris Corwin drew on the second board. Zuk overpowered Jeffrey Fox on the third board. The match was completed in seven hours.

Dentist Dies for Children

Names In the News

SEATTLE, Wash. — The heroism of a Seattle dentist who gave his life to save two of his children when a violent snowstorm swept majestic Mt. Rainier has been disclosed by park rangers.

Dr. James M. Reddick, 51, was found dead of exposure at the 9,000 foot level of the mountain. His children, Sharon, 12, and David, 11, were cold and wet but unharmed.

When the storm erupted, rangers said, Reddick dug a snow cave by hand, had the children crawl into their sleeping bags and then used his body to protect them.

OTTAWA — A plaque commemorating Canadian humorist Stephen Leacock will be unveiled near his former home at Orillia, Ont., Saturday, the northern development department has announced.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. — Sheriff's deputies informed a burglary suspect of his constitutional rights before they arrested him, only to have him answer, "I know my rights. Get me the hell outta here." The deputies OTTAWA — The earliest date Steven Truscott can be paroled is June 11, 1969, but his application must be in nine months earlier, the national parole board says. A board spokesman said Truscott, now serving a life sentence for the 1959 sex-slaying of a 12-year-old girl, has been informed of the regulations.

BOUNTIFUL, Idaho — Brad Haines, 2, and his pet turtle Myrtle are finally going their separate ways. The boy's mother, Mrs. Russel Haines, said Brad had started to pass Myrtle from his body naturally. He swallowed the pet last week.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Officials at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Centre have identified the heart transplant patient who died on the operating table Saturday night as Ronald G. Smith, a 33-year-old Negro policeman who had been transferred to light duties because of his heart ailment.

MONTREAL — Andre Mathieu, 36, noted Canadian pianist and composer, has died of a heart attack here. Known internationally as the Canadian Mozart, Mr. Mathieu composed a great number of pieces and was also acclaimed as an excellent orchestra conductor.

VANCOUVER — A 20-year-old Kamloops man received a nine-

Garden Notes

Both Sides Attack

By M. V. CHESNUT

Last week I discussed the construction of a simple, inexpensive propagating case for the striking of cuttings. Today I'd like to give you a few pointers on the technique of selection and rooting from various plants in the garden.

In the rock garden, those three reliable old standards—aubretia, arabis and alysseum—all root quite readily from cuttings taken at this time of the year, shortly after the plants complete their first flush of flowering.

All three plants will benefit from being sheared back drastically after flowering, and will be more likely to produce a second crop of bloom later in the year if given a crew cut now. Some of the sheared-off, unflowered shoots are good candidates for our snap-box propagating case.

The white arabis and the same alysseum are pretty much the same in all gardens, but aubretia comes in quiet a wide variety of shades, so it might be a good idea to beg your slips from a neighbour rather than propagate from your own plants, in order to introduce more variety into your garden.

Flowering catmint is easy to root from cuttings taken in June. I have Nepeta mussini and Nepeta Souvenir d'Andre Chaudron in my garden, with aromatic foliage and misty mauve flower trusses, both grown from slips. One was begged from a park gardener in Beacon Hill Park and the other was offered to me by a kindly lady in Duncan when I stopped to admire the plant in her front garden. This was brought home wrapped in a damp handkerchief and was rooted and growing strongly inside of two weeks.

Another piece of booty is the result of petty larceny on my part—a handsome specimen of the shrub Escallonia. This one grew to flowering size in three years from a tiny twig snapped from a branch which hung over a fence on Blenheim Road. Escallonia is not only an attractive specimen shrub, but makes a first-class hedge, especially for seafront gardens where salt-laden winds make it difficult to grow many of our more common hedging shrubs.

My winter-flowering jasmine was acquired quite illegally in much the same way, from a roadside plant in Upper Terrace Road. That little twig has now covered a whole wall and has supplied cuttings for several of my neighbours.

Generally speaking, the type of shrub cutting that roots most readily is young growth which is just beginning to harden up and turn woody—neither the old, brittle shoots nor the lush, happy branch tips, but something in between. A slip about six to eight inches long, taken from the middle section of a shrub branch is good. Make your lower cut just below a leaf, then remove the lower leaf from the slip. Make all cuts with a very sharp knife or an old razor blade, for crushed or bruised tissue is reluctant to produce roots.

I have come to be a great believer in the hormone rooting powders such as Rootone, Stim-Root and Seradix, for the root-stimulating effect of these hormone chemicals makes it possible to propagate subjects which are otherwise very slow and difficult to root. I moisten the cut end of the slip, dip it in the rooting powder, shake off any excess, and insert the cutting in my homemade propagating case.

ART BUCHWALD Meets That Little Old Lady

Anyone for Tennis?

WASHINGTON — No one has heard from the little old lady in tennis shoes this election year, although in 1964 she was Barry Goldwater's staunchest supporter and was quoted constantly during the entire campaign.

I was fortunate to run into her the other day on the street. Except for the fact she looked a little grayer and her shoes were a little more scuffed, she had changed little during Lyndon Johnson's years in office.

"Hello, little old lady in tennis shoes," I said. "It's good to see you again." "You say that every four years, but you never come to see me when there aren't any elections going on." "I'm sorry," I apologized. "But I've been awfully busy covering President Johnson." "I'll bet you have," she chuckled. "You all laughed at me in 1964, but in your heart you know I was right."

"Tell me, little old lady in tennis shoes, what have you been doing for the past four years?"

"Perfecting my serve. When my man lost, I went back to tennis. I've never played better. You got time for a couple of sets? I've got my racket in my shopping bag here."

"Thank you, but I really don't have time to play now."

"Too bad, I could whip the pants off you."

"I know this is a personal question, but who are all the little old ladies in tennis shoes supporting this year?" "Well, that Ronald Reagan seems like such a nice young man. He's no Barry Goldwater when it comes to thinking, but he dresses so neatly, and he's got such a sincere quality in his voice. I even liked him before he went into politics."

"You had to like him, then," I said.

"Reagan stands for God, Home and country," she said, swinging her tennis racket for emphasis. "He believes in the American virtues that all of us hold dear."

"How do you feel about Rockefeller?"

"That socialist? Do you know he tried to steal the nomination away from Barry Goldwater in 1964? He would have, if we hadn't booted him at the convention."

"Was that you tennis ladies booing Rockefeller?" "Well, it wasn't Happy," she chuckled as she hit a tennis ball across the street.

"How do you feel about Nixon?"

She paused in the middle of a swing. "Old Tricky Dicky. We tennis shoe people liked the old Nixon. The new Nixon gets on our nerves. If we have to go that route we will, but it's the last time." "You wouldn't consider supporting a Democrat, would you?"

"You must be kidding," she said. "I wouldn't even play one doubles."

"It's that bad, huh?" "Look, sonny, we little old ladies in tennis shoes have very high standards. We're not going to throw our vote away on leftists, pinkos, deficit spenders who want to fluoridate our drinking water. You sure you don't have time for one set?"

"I wish I did," I said regretfully. "but I have to get back to the office."

"You bet your sweet life you will, sonny," she said, jumping over an imaginary net to shake my hand. "And this time we're going to give it to Rockefeller good. Those Eastern establishment socialists just never learn."

Dyan Job-Hunting

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Dyan Cannon is closing her apartment in New York because she says she cannot afford to keep it up, what with the moderate allowance she received in the settlement of her divorce with Cary Grant. She had expected much more. She will live permanently in Hollywood, because that is where the acting jobs are. She wants to work and she says she needs the money.

Pat Medina, who is Mrs. Joe Cotton in private life, describes her role of the good-hearted prostitute in The Killing of Sister George as the most wholesome part in the script. This role was not in the play. Pat is resuming her career after a three-year hiatus during which she travelled around with Cotton to his various film assignments in Europe.

Elke Sommer, bored with the current nudity on the screen, says she will wear 18 dresses for her co-starring role with Dean Martin in The Wrecking Crew for Columbia. At home, Elke still paints while nude, which is somewhat distracting for her author-husband Joe Hyams.

Lee Remick who did her first nude with Frank Sinatra in The Detective, will have three, each more revealing than the other, in her picture with James Coburn, Hard Contract. There are brothels, sadism, masochism scenes galore — and I remember when David Selznick had a long battle to get the okay for Clark Gable to say "damn" in Gone With the Wind. Those dear days have truly gone with the wind.

Katharine Ross who was so good in The Graduate and now finishing up with John Wayne in The Hellfighter, will return to the stage after her next movie, Willie Boy, in which she plays an Indian of all things.

It's tough to work in Rome when your wife is in Los Angeles. Jimmy Faraquino wound up his Story of a Woman in the Eternal City, and just received his bill for the calls he made to wife Michele Lee in Los Angeles — $1,154.75. He could have flown home and back twice for the same money.

The Barbara Rush-Warren-Cowan ménage is divided politically. Barbara is for McCarthy; press relations man Warren is for Kennedy. Two more in Gene's corner: Jill St. John and Jim Backus. And of course the most active non-candidate is ex-actor Ronald Reagan. If he continues to be so non-active, he just might land in the White House and what a leap frogging that would be from his so-recent Death Valley Days. If you were to put it all into a picture, the audience would walk out.

That $305,000 diamond bought at Parke-Bernet in New York was the gem Richard told me about when I visited him in London. It was his fourth anniversary present to Liz. And, make no mistake, he paid for it, not Elizabeth — a tiny token of his esteem. What will he do for an encore?

The money pouring in for the Richard Bartons adds up to about $6,000,000 a year. No wonder they can afford to spend a million a year on themselves, just for the joy of living and buying each other fabulous presents.

Question: If the golden shower continues and it shows no sign of abating, will Elizabeth retire at the end of two years as she recently stated? I don't see how she can. I hope she has a safe place for that new 33.16 carat diamond. Paulette Goddard used to keep her jewels in a cigar box. "No one would think of looking for them there?" she told me. But what if a burglar wanted a smoke?

Driving Not Education

SYDNEY HARRIS

Several years ago I was battered from attacks when I ventured to suggest that "driver education" programs in high schools were most likely a waste of time, money and energy.

Now, a traffic safety committee named by former Sec. John W. Gardner of the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department, reported last month that there is "no certainty and much doubt" that the multimillion-dollar investment in U.S. driver education actually makes better teen-age drivers.

After many years of a widespread program, there is no clear evidence that driver education "has a significant favorable effect upon driver attitudes, performance or other achievements," the report said. A continuation of the present program would "squander vast public sums" in the process, the committee warned.

There is an even more important point involved. Why should a high school teach young people how to drive, which is a purely private skill, having no relationship to education, and diverting public funds from the real task of educating boys and girls as human beings?

The whole idea of compulsory mass public education — and it was a fine and revolutionary idea when it was conceived — was to raise everyone to a high intellectual and cultural level, so that self-government was as broadly based as possible.

An ignorant people obviously cannot govern themselves intelligently. But, more and more, we have drifted away from the initial idea. Our prime purpose is no longer to turn out informed and reasonable citizens, but to instruct in various vocational and manual skills. Proficiency in sports and the ability to earn a living seem to have become the prime goals of our modern school system.

A dummy who drives a car well is still a dummy. Learning how to drive a car, like learning how to dance or hit a ball or make fudge or fix a bicycle, is something that should be learned at home, not at school. And the more time the school devotes to these marginal matters, the more dummies it will continue to turn out.

It is true that poor driving kills people. But poor thinking kills even more people — in riots, wars, social revolutions, and assorted mass irrationalities.

The schools are charged with the task of turning out people who can drive their own minds and steer their own passions. Any time taken away from this prime task increases civilization's chances of spinning right off the precipice of fate.

Charman Tells Gyros

Slipping Economy Needs Strong Voice

This area is slipping economically and what is needed is a strong voice in Ottawa — someone to stand up and fight federal measures which weaken the district, Conservative candidate Eric Charman told a luncheon meeting of the Victoria Gyro Club Monday.

Someone should have stood up in the House to oppose the shipbuilding policy which forced the closure of Victoria Machinery Depot Shipyard and someone should fight the move to close Work Point — which Mr. Charman predicted would take place three days after the election if the Liberals win.

Robert Stanfield and his Conservative team stood for an indivisible nation and no status for any one province, the speaker said, criticizing the Liberal government for calling a constitutional conference just before an election — a move which seemed to pit one province against the other nine.

He also struck out at the assigning of 14 senior cabinet portfolios to one province and at concession after concession that the Liberals had made to Quebec.

"And then Mr. Trudeau, after making a sweep through rural Quebec, came out with a 10-page policy statement in which he announced a foreign-aid program for five French-speaking countries," Mr. Charman said.

The candidate lashed out at government expenditures which "are quite out of hand" and at the cost of living, which was rising at a rate double the maximum set by the Economic Council of Canada.

NO QUORUM

The housing problem was national in scope and Parliament was so stale that half its committees didn't meet because quorums could not be assembled, he said.

People were told that Stanfield lacked lustre, but it might be well to have a man in Ottawa of integrity and administrative ability. Mr. Charman noted that most of the men who opposed Stanfield for the leadership were still on his team, whereas the Liberals had lost many of the aspirants — "they just couldn't be held."

Liberal David Groos said that the groundwork for a "just society" had been laid and what was needed now was time to polish and adapt the legislation to the country's needs.

LIFT WHOLE AREAS

Such measures as unemployment insurance, manpower training, old age security, medicare and a students' loan program all had to be refined and adapted, said Mr. Groos.

The Liberals intended to lift whole areas of the country from the brink of poverty and establish them in the mainstream of a productive society, he said.

"This is not a giant welfare program, no bottomless pit, but a permanent program designed to provide self-sustaining jobs and homes for Canadians, wherever they may be," Mr. Groos said.

EXTREME DANGER

Looking at recent developments in the United States and other countries, one saw the extreme danger and fantastic, wasteful cost of ignoring the giant problem of regional social disparity.

It was clear that before another election after this one, the constitution of Canada would have to be rewritten, the speaker said.

"We pledge that if re-writing is entrusted to us, Canada will emerge as a strong unified nation with special status for no province," said Mr. Groos.

PROJECTS

Among the projects planned by the Liberals was updating of the administration of justice, revision of expropriation procedures, elimination of abuses in the bail system and modernization of the federal prison system.

There would be a study of urban renewal, Mr. Groos said, a code for the protection of consumers and passage of the bill to lower drug prices.

Campaign Roundup

Winsome Foe For Trudeau

From CP Reports

A winsome woman lawyer entered the election campaign Sunday as Tory candidate to fight Prime Minister Trudeau in Montreal's Mount Royal riding. She is likely to be nominated Wednesday.

Huguette Marleau hardly had time to announce her candidacy when Barney London, Tory riding president, kissed her on the cheek. She then kissed a campaign photo of Tory leader Robert Stanfield.

But Miss Marleau said she won't wage a kissing campaign. "I won't say it isn't pleasant, but I feel on that score men are more enterprising than women," she said.

PRIME MINISTER Trudeau told the press in Winnipeg he's proposing to establish national marketing boards for agricultural products. He said Ottawa will approach the provinces about assuming over-all control in that department. . . . The separatist Mouvement Souverainiste-Association in Montreal urged members to vote for the men "most likely to serve Quebec's interests." . . . William Kashtan, leader of Canada's Communist party, says it is in the best interests of Canada "to deny a majority government."

NDP LEADER T. C. Douglas says he'll accept an invitation to debate Canadian unity with Ray Perrault, former B.C. Liberal leader and Douglas' opponent in Burnaby-Seymour. . . . Yves Dupuis, former federal cabinet minister not running in the June 25 election.

FORESTRY MINISTER Saue says he's refused three ridings offered him by Liberal candidates. But he also says he's still interested in running. Saue lost the nomination in a Montreal riding last week. . . . Alex Patterson, acting national leader of the Social Credit, plans to confine "virtually all" his campaigning to B.C.

Douglas Laments Policy Lack

Old Parties Offer Only Personalities

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — said the federal government should order private funds into housing production. High interest rates, caused by putting capital up for auction to the highest bidder," were a prime factor in Canada's housing problem, he said.

Douglas brushed off Liberal and Conservative policy statements for the June 25 election as fundamentally the same in approach.

The Liberals had scrapped their only progressive measure when they left the Canada Development Corporation out of a policy statement made public during the weekend.

LIBERAL PLANK

The NDP would use the corporation, a plank in the 1968 Liberal platform, to pump funds into underdeveloped areas like the Atlantic region, he told a news conference.

Young faces dominated a placard-bearing crowd of about 40 as the 63-year-old NDP leader stepped off an Air Canada flight.

They included Barrie Hould, 35, a railway union representative running in Moncton constituency and John Judson, 24, executive assistant to the president of Mount Allison University and the NDP candidate in Westmorland-Kent riding.

TWO CARRY HOPES

The party pins its strongest hopes for its first election victory in New Brunswick on these two. It is running candidates in all 10 N.B. ridings and they gathered with Douglas for a "policy think-in."

He told the conference that the Atlantic provinces have been tough for the NDP to crack—it has never held more than one seat in the region and that has been in Nova Scotia—and attributed this to traditional voting patterns that are hard to break, particularly in poor areas.

He said he has found the cost of living and high taxes to be the major voters' concerns. The constitutional issue was important but difficult to get across clearly.

The NDP felt there should be a strong central government to deal with matters such as employment and pollution.

However, the party was ready to accept one program for the nine English-speaking provinces and a separate one for Quebec as better than none.

In Toronto Sunday Douglas

Sabotage Suspected As Douglas Ignored

MONCTON (CP) — Clumps of workers at the Canadian National Railways big Atlantic region shops here walked past Tommy Douglas without a word Monday as the NDP leader campaigned at the main gate.

Only about one in 10 stopped to say hello. The others filed silently past to a parking lot dominated by a billboard bearing Robert L. Stanfield's face.

Some of the 300-400 workers appeared to be shy of the TV and press cameras behind Douglas.

However, chastened Barrie Hould, 35, the NDP candidate for Moncton, and a railway union representative here, said the appearance had been sabotaged.

The NDP is relying heavily on the vote of some 2,000 railway workers and their dependents here to gain the party its first New Brunswick victory ever. Hould said workers had apparently been diverted to another gate or held up. One who was supposed to distribute placards hadn't.

Only one placard, brought out in the Douglas cavalcade, was in evidence.

Plant supervisors drove stonily past. Hould said most of the supervisory positions are "Liberal patronage jobs."

He suggested the supervisors somehow sabotaged the whole affair.

NDP workers here were particularly disappointed because the party had earned good publicity last month when Douglas met mine and smelter workers at the main gate of a plant in Sudbury.

Stanfield Raps 'Sloganeering'

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Conservative Leader Stanfield Monday night accused Prime Minister Trudeau of "political sloganeering" with his promises to revitalize the Atlantic region with a new federal department and a Canadian "Marshall Plan."

Mr. Stanfield told a cheering crowd of 3,000 at a party rally that Atlantic province problems are "too serious to be dealt with by gimmicks and slogans" such as the Liberal promises.

RESENTMENT

Stanfield said there will be deep resentment in the Atlantic provinces and other slower growth areas at the Liberal attempt to gloss over regional problems "with a thin veneer of political sloganeering."

The sharp Stanfield attack was aimed at the Liberal promise of a special department of Atlantic affairs and a scheme patterned on Marshall Plan aid to Europe after the Second World War.

BETTER EFFORT

The crowd that more than half filled the 4,500-seat Kennedy Coliseum applauded Stanfield's speech heavily throughout. It was regarded as one of his better campaign efforts.

He said Canada has "a government so careless and casual" that it says our economy is the strongest in history.

To support his point, Stanfield said Canada has had to borrow abroad to bolster foreign exchange reserves and protect the cash balances of the government.

Medicare Issue

Trudeau Adamant

By RON COLLISTER, Ottawa Bureau

KAMLOOPS—Prime Minister Trudeau dug in his heels Monday and refused to agree to any fundamental change in the medicare plan.

He answered Tory leader Robert Stanfield, who pushed medicare into the election with a promise that he will change it.

"There's no might about it," Stanfield said. "I have seldom felt so strongly about anything in my life as I do about the federal government forcing its will on the provinces in this matter."

"It is a provincial matter," Stanfield said.

Dropping into Castlegar on a campaign spin through the B.C. Interior, Mr. Trudeau was asked if he was planning any change in medicare in the next session of parliament.

"...o," he replied, "medicare

is the law of the land" and would come into effect on July 1, as scheduled.

He added that he stood by the principle of the plan and there was no question of amending it.

Mr. Trudeau spent a successful day in British Columbia, drawing good crowds along the way and giving his sides some hope that he will crack through the Tory-New Democratic strength in the province.

He began the day at Penticton, ended it at Prince George, then spent the night at Edmonton.

He travelled 600 miles by air and car, and hit the following issues:

- A task force to find out why Canada doesn't do better in Olympic and other international events, and to find some answers.

- Helping the peach farmers.
- Canada, as one nation.

At all points, Mr. Trudeau was applauded when he stated his unity policy, and applauded again when he spoke French.

His audiences, maybe, did not understand what he was saying. But they seemed to like the idea of him speaking French, in a province where opposition was said to be running strong.

There was little sign of opposition Monday.

Mr. Trudeau also hammered away at the need for rich provinces to help poorer provinces, to help keep the country together.

He was speaking in one of the "rich" provinces, which, through a system of equalization payments, funnel help to poorer provinces through Ottawa.

Some of the areas where he talked are "designated" areas, getting government help. But this is because of the season.

Peterson Indication

No Bill 33 Speedup In Woods Dispute

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

B.C. has no intention of speeding up the proclamation of full powers under controversial Bill 33 to meet the threat of a strike this summer in the coast lumber industry, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson indicated Monday.

He said it will be up to the commission, after it takes office June 15, to set up its quarters in Vancouver and hire the necessary mediators and research staff before beginning operation.

The fact June 15 is also the first day on which the coastal IWA workers can legally strike, if no settlement is reached before that with Forest Industrial Relations, representing the industry, has led to speculation that the commission might intervene before the full machinery is set up.

Mr. Peterson said the public reaction to appointment of Judge John Parker of the Yukon territorial court as chairman and mediation commissioners

Protest Perch

NAPLES, Italy (Reuters)—Five unemployed building workers are perched atop a 100-foot high crane and refuse to move until they are given work.

The workers climbed the crane Saturday morning. Their families, police and others stood Monday at the foot of the crane trying to persuade the workers to come down—without success.

Student Unrest Boils SFU Tension Eases

Now It's Oxford

OXFORD, England (UPI)—The international wave of student political unrest reached hallowed Oxford University Monday when 300 students besieged the offices of the proctors, the university police.

The raid came in a day which also saw student unrest in Yugoslavia, France, Italy and Japan (see stories this page and Page 2).

CAMPED OUTSIDE

The Oxford students burst into the university registry through iron gates and camped outside the proctors' office to press a protest against a ban on the "indiscriminate distribution" of political leaflets.

The demonstration, organized by a student group calling itself the Committee of 90, coincided with the lapse of an ultimatum presented to the proctors demanding a revision of the proctors' disciplinary memorandum to junior students.

TWO FEMALES

When proctors refused to receive a deputation of two women students, the demonstrators started shouting "proctors out" and "end proctorial tyranny." Then they forced their way into the courtyard iron gates.

It was an unprecedented scene at Britain's oldest university, where proctors have always commanded near-total respect.

POLICE STOOD BY

Students of the university Conservative Association staged a counter-demonstration in support of the proctors but there was no direct clash. Police stood by in case of violence, but took no action.

After scuffles broke out in the registry courtyard between some proctors and demonstrators, the proctors agreed to receive student leader Trevor Munro.

PROCTORS AGREE

Senior proctor Charles Smith and junior proctor Robert Gesser then agreed to delete from the memorandum the passage banning the distribution of leaflets.

The demonstration broke up on an understanding that the students would be given the amendments in writing.

Two other minor student protest incidents marked the holiday in Britain.

● In Scotland, 25 Edinburgh University students were prevented by police from marching on the French consulate to demonstrate "solidarity" with the students and workers of France in their uprising against President Charles de Gaulle.

However police permitted a deputation to deliver a note to the consulate expressing "total solidarity" with the French students and workers.

● In the North London suburban Hornsey College of Art, where students were staging a weekend sit-in, the demonstrators published a 31-point manifesto demanding the abolition of examinations based on academic studies and certain entrance qualifications.

BURNABY (CP)—It was a day of action and confusion at troubled Simon Fraser University Monday, but at day's end, the tension appeared to be easing a little.

In a major move, Dr. John Ellis resigned as temporary president, and Dr. Archibald MacPherson, head of the geography department and dean of arts, was nominated by the faculty to replace him.

Dr. MacPherson said he will seek ratification by students today. His name then will go before the board of governors for final approval.

Also seeking the position were Prof. Robert Hopper of the behavioral sciences foundation and Prof. R. L. Koepke of the history faculty.

During the nominations, the names of Dr. Ellis and Martin Loney, student council president, were put forward, but both declined.

The board earlier agreed it would accept a faculty decision on a temporary acting president.

Dr. Ellis was appointed only last Friday to the post, when president Dr. Patrick McTaggart

Belgrade Youth Battles Police

BELGRADE (AP)—Shouting down Yugoslavia's Communist party leaders with cries of "We want action—enough with words," students barged into a free-swinging battle with police here Monday.

A Moody riot Sunday night gave President Tito's independent Communist country its first taste of the unrest and upheaval affecting many of the world's university cities.

More than 60 persons were reported injured in two clashes involving thousands of students and helmeted police in Belgrade. Students accused police of brutality. Authorities said provocateurs, capitalizing on student grievances, had expanded the violence and looted shops.

Later, students occupied a building housing Belgrade University's administrative offices and the school of philosophy. Police surrounded the building while hundreds of persons gathered outside to hear students who made speeches from the balcony.

Elsewhere, speakers at a rally of 3,000 students called for parliament to meet on their complaints and denounced Yugoslav news media as biased against them.

The students asked that policemen who used "savagery" tactics be demoted and that reporters who gave slanted

Italian Riot Squads Capture University

ROME (AP)—Italian riot police seized the embattled University of Rome on Monday from 2,000 rebellious leftist students who had held the campus for three days.

Police moved in at the request of university Rector Pietro Agostino d'Avack after an hour-long battle between rival student groups. Ten students were injured and 53 taken into custody.

The occupying students faded away quickly when police cut their way in through the chained main gates of the campus. They left behind their red flags of revolution and black flags of anarchy.

The rebels occupied the grounds Friday in a protest at the social and educational system.

Meanwhile, Italy was troubled by a government crisis two weeks after the election for a new Parliament.

Premier Aldo Moro will submit his resignation after Parliament reconvenes Wednesday, although his Christian Democratic party made gains in the balloting.

PARIS (CP)—About two-thirds of the 9,000,000 employees on strike throughout France are due to vote today on offers of higher pay and better conditions designed to lure them back to work.

But the uncertainty of any immediate return to normal in crisis-ridden France caused Prime Minister Georges Pompidou Monday to cite the huge economic losses inflicted on the country as he pleaded with Frenchmen to "defend the republic and freedom."

JOURNALISTS STRIKE

However, journalists who have been continuing with preparation of news broadcasts for the state-owned French broadcasting service voted Monday night to strike—one element in an atmosphere which seemed to have soured since pre-weekend predictions of an early end to the nationwide work stoppages.

Hosts of Frenchmen were returning home after a long weekend holiday—and they faced the same nerve-racking conditions of public-service paralysis in their home towns as when they left. Any expressions of optimism were cautiously phrased.

Monday brought agreement for work resumption in the petroleum industry. Students were still boycotting classes.

LOST PRODUCTION

Most of the strikes have been in effect for almost three weeks, and every week of work stoppage, Pompidou said, has meant a two-per-cent loss in France's annual gross national product—a cost of about $2,000,000,000 in lost production.

His statement struck a different note from the confident, almost gloating tones of the government declaration issued following a cabinet meeting Saturday.

Pompidou charged that "a certain number of individuals or groups have not laid down their arms."

"We believe that this crisis has shown that the republic is in danger," he added. "The Communist party has shown all its ambitions."

Suspect Held, Warhol 'Critical'

Woman Shoots Famed Pop Artist

NEW YORK (AP)—Andy Warhol, the pop artist and underground film producer, was shot and critically wounded by a woman Monday in his Manhattan office, police said.

One bullet also grazed an English art gallery owner, Mario Amaya, 30, of London. He later was released from Columbus Hospital, where Warhol underwent surgery.

Police Inspector Thomas Maguire said Warhol, 36, was shot once in the upper chest with a small calibre gun.

He was in surgery two hours later and the hospital described his condition as "still very serious and critical."

Police said the woman sought admission to Warhol's office by identifying herself to a secretary as Valeria Solanis. An actress by that name appeared in the Warhol film, I, a Man, a parody of a Swedish film about a nymphomaniac.

The woman walked out of the sixth floor office near Union Square. Several hours later, Miss Solanis, 28, turned herself over to a policeman in Times Square.

Viva, an actress who has been described as Warhol's most recent super-star, rushed to the hospital where she told reporters she had been talking on the telephone to Warhol at the time of the shooting.

"I heard five shots and a lot of screaming," Viva said. "I thought it was a joke, then the phone was dropped."

Police said that when the woman asked to see Warhol, the blonde artist told his secretary, Paul Morrissey, "Let her in," when he heard the name she gave.

Minutes later, Morrissey said, the short, thin woman, wearing a raincoat, calmly walked out, leaving the door ajar.

When Morrissey got up to close the door, he saw the two men on the floor, he told police.

Warhol painted and toured with an electronic rock group called Velvet Underground, whose members wore boots, false eyelashes and striped tight pants.

He has produced more than 150 underground movies. The best known, Chelsea Girls, was the first underground film to be shown in a first-run commercial theatre.

Chelsea Girls ran 3½ hours, showing a group of girls and boys cutting their hair, injecting dope into the seats of their jeans and playing sex games. "I like boring things," he once said.

Beekeepers' Queen Edges Queen Bee

Story and Picture
By AGNES FLETT

NANAIMO — They may not know it, but Vancouver Island bees have a new leader.

She is Patty Sloan of Wellington who was chosen bee queen during a beekeepers' field day near Nanaimo. During the day she competed with junior bee enthusiasts in a contest in which they had to light their smokers and produce clouds of smoke. Patty came second to Andre Grubac.

Also featured was a bee-blower, something new for Island beekeepers. It's the latest method for moving bees when it's time to collect the honey.

The usual method is to use carbolic acid-soaked cloth. The smell drives away the bees, but the process takes about 1½ hours and sometimes the carbolic acid taints the honey.

The blower sends out a blast of about 180 mph to move the bees in 10 seconds. It weighs 25 pounds and can be carried on the operator's back. It was demonstrated by bee inspector Ed Mikol.

Life Insurance for 20 year olds?

Definitely. This is the best time to buy life insurance. At the beginning of your career when the premiums are lower.

When you buy life insurance you create an estate of your own the moment you sign. Life insurance is also a sound investment. Thanks to compound interest, the cash value will keep increasing through the years giving you a "nest egg" for unforeseen emergencies.

Life insurance can also be used as collateral. For loans or business deals later.

Talk to the Man from Manufacturers. He'll discuss your particular situation with you and draw up your personal life insurance program. One with options so that up to age 40 you can add to it at intervals, including when you marry and when your children are born. You can make these additional purchases regardless of your health condition.

Twenty isn't too young to start your life insurance program. Some men even begin at 18. You have to start early when you're aiming for financial success.

Immigration Aid Urged

Welcome to Valley

PORT ALBERNI — An immigration reception committee may be organized for the valley.

A meeting of representatives from various ethnic groups in Port Alberni will be held Wednesday to discuss the project.

J. A. Gunn-Fowle, manager of the Port Alberni Manpower Centre, said immigration to Canada has been increasing rapidly over the last four years. During that time, the number of immigrants in British Columbia has more than doubled.

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Several direct hits by lightning on a 72,000-volt feeder line in downtown Moose Jaw during a thunderstorm were responsible for a 45-minute blackout in the downtown area.

anticipated that more immigrants, particularly from European countries, will be settling here, he said.

"In our fast-growing community, these people will require more information and assistance than ever before in matters of accommodation, employment and the Canadian way of life," Mr. Gunn-Fowle observed.

"The fastest and most efficient way to provide this information is through a fellow-countryman who can speak to them in their own language.

grant's morale at the time of his arrival is of the greatest importance. To be met in a strange town and a strange country by a friendly person speaking his native tongue and drawing on the benefit of his own experience, helped the newcomer tremendously in adapting to his new environment."

Activities of the proposed reception committee will be co-ordinated by the local Manpower Centre, which receives advance notice of the arrival of new immigrants. City council will send a delegate to attend the meeting.

Peterson's Last Duty

New School Goes Mod

GOLD RIVER — For his last duty as education minister, Leslie Peterson opened $1,282,000 ultra-modern secondary school here Saturday.

There are about 55 students enrolled at the school which has a teaching staff of 12.

"This school has been built to meet the needs of the future in an adequate, in fact, the best possible fashion," said E. R. Hewson, school board secretary-treasurer. The value of the modern design of the school was also praised by T. G. Ellwood, principal, and the trustees, headed by chairman Aksel Christensen.

The school, situated on eight acres of land close to the centre of town and abutting a park site and river, contains about 40,000 square feet of space.

It contains 15 teaching areas, a large interior foyer indirectly lighted, spacious office and storage space, and wide hallways. There is also a gymnasium with stage, showers and changing rooms, capable of holding some 600 spectators. It is linked to the school by a covered walkway.

A full junior secondary education program is offered with 54 courses including options in industrial training, modern languages, home economics and music.

The school was designed by the architectural firm of McCarter, Nairne and Partners.

Loaded Gas Tank Drops in Street

NANAIMO — A tanker lost its load of gasoline Monday afternoon at the Neal Street and Esplanade intersection.

A crane was obtained to lift the container back onto the tractor, but because there were fears of further damage to the tank, and of striking sparks, the method was abandoned.

Two fork lifts from Johnston Terminals were then used. Nanaimo fire department flooded the streets with water to wash away the gasoline.

RCMP re-routed traffic. The load was slowly lifted into position, and the tractor slid back under the tank after 1½ hours' work.

Driver George Race said: "The pin sheared off, that's all." The tank was taken to a gravelled area for further inspection.

Barnett Urges

'Let's Guard Resources'

PORT ALBERNI — The importance of conservation was stressed by Tom Barnett, NDP candidate for the Comox-Alberni riding, after he returned from a north island tour.

"The three R's of conservation — resources and regulation and research are becoming as important as the three R's of the little red school house days," he said.

In the present complex and rapidly growing world, resources must be regarded as a heritage held in trust not only for this generation, but for generations to come, he said.

Regulation under federal, provincial and municipal law is necessary, he said, to prevent the wanton, and the ignorant from devastating the country's resource heritage.

"Research is the accelerator which could enable better beneficial use of resources to be made without the by-products of waste and devastating pollution."

Speed Caused Teen Deaths

GRAND FORKS (C.P.) — A coroner's jury has blamed excessive speed and failure of a car to negotiate a curve in the May 4 deaths of seven teenagers in a car-truck crash.

The jury said no blame should be attached to truck driver Leonard Barnert, 19, of Grand Forks. His heavy vehicle overturned on the car carrying the youngsters after the impact.

'We Don't Need Them'

Canadian N-Arms Rejected by Brock

LADYSMITH — Rear-Admiral (retired) Jeffrey Brock does not think Canada should concentrate on nuclear weapons.

"Canada has no need for nuclear weapons now or in the foreseeable future," said Adm. Brock who is Conservative candidate for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands riding.

He made the comment after talking to about 40 workers at Ladysmith Forest Products sawmill Monday.

"I believe it is urgent to undertake a complete re-examination of the nature of our contribution to NATO with the view of exploring possibilities of transforming this important alliance into aspects that are not purely military."

Referring to NORAD, Adm. Brock called for an open discussion in parliament "to let members and Parliament and the general Canadian public know what NORAD is all about."

"I would like to see the power of Parliament restored. In the past few years Parliament has been used as an instrument by an inept clique of Liberal politicians. The purpose of Parliament has been frustrated for too long."

He said in order to ease the present private home construction crisis, his party would form a new corporation which could borrow money from money markets in different countries.

A new revolving fund would assist municipalities which in turn would be able to aid their cities with housing schemes. "We have pledged to take off the 11 per cent tax on building materials which in itself would ease the burden considerably," he said.

Dogs Help Guides

Long March Raises $3,000 for Camp

LAKE COWICHAN — A total of 425 boys, girls, mothers, fathers, grandmothers, grandfathers and dogs swarmed over a 10-mile route during Sunday's walkathon.

The girl guide association, which sponsored the walkathon, hope to collect more than $3,000 from the walkers. The money will go to the Kiwanis children's camp for the handicapped which is nearing completion at Lake Cowichan.

Kiwanis clubs from the Island, Mainland and north-western United States are helping with the camp.

Higher Total

"The money is to be turned in by June 8," said Mrs. Mel Miller, acting secretary of the guide parent association.

"After figuring out a rough estimate, we are expecting to bring in at least $1,000 more than we originally anticipated. "We were really amazed to see so many people out. They came from all around the lake, and many people were from out of town."

Camp Start

The walk started at 10 a.m., from the Meade Creek Camp and ended at the Kiwanis' camp.

Sides were overcast, but the rain held off until 2 p.m., only minutes after the last walkers limped into the camp.

Three youths, who jogged the whole distance, completed the course in one hour and 40 minutes.

Ruff, a collie owned by the Trevor Green family of Lake Cowichan, was escorted over the route by his young master and mistress, Tony and Kathy Green.

Fine Shape

Ruff collected $4.50 a mile, and he was in fine shape when he arrived at the finish line.

Other dogs also took part in the trek. In most cases, they not only walked, but also sponsored each other.

One young man, who completed the long hike, was John Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Anderson of Lake Cowichan, who is blind. But with the aid of friends he was able to participate in the walkathon which will help children who have a handicap similar to his own.

An 82-year-old great-grandmother, Mrs. Edith Tappin, of Lake Cowichan, completed about two miles.

Four generations of the Tappin family took part. Mrs. Tappin was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Pat Fisher, her grand-daughter, Mrs. Ethel Johnson, and her great-grandchildren, Cindy, Gerry and Stephen Johnson.

Mrs. Tommy Lamb, of Lake Cowichan, was the most sponsored walker. She completed the hike and collected a total of $243.

$100 Each

One of her children collected an additional $115. Many walkers will contribute more than $100 each towards the camp.

Four 2nd Lake Venturers were sponsored by Western Forest Industries on the condition that the young scouts wore backpacks.

One, Tom Volkner, carried a 50-pound pack. The others David Hammond, Richard St. Dennis and Rocky Padgen, wore lighter packs.

Youth's Body Found

DUNCAN — RCMP have identified the body pulled from the Cowichan River on Saturday as that of 18-year-old William Peterson, of 3150 Glen Lake Road, Victoria.

Mr. Peterson had been missing since an Easter weekend canoe trip which also claimed the life of his father, John S. Peterson.

They were on a trip from Skutumpah Falls on the river down to Cowichan Bay.

THREE MONTHS — Mr. Peterson, 42, was assistant superintendent of Western Lumber Carriers in Victoria. His son was a Belmont High School student.

They owned the canoe — a 14-foot glass fibre model — for about three months and were familiar with its operation, according to family and friends. They were both keen fishermen.

Boy Missing

PORT ALICE — A four-day search for three-year-old Michael Lawrence has been called off. RCMP said Monday. Police believe the boy fell into Neverset's Inlet, on which Port Alice is located.

Indians Invite All Parties

QUALICUM BAY — Indian voters from all parts of Vancouver Island will attend an all-candidate meeting in Nanaimo Sunday.

The meeting, which will be held in the Credit Union Hall, is being organized by the Southern Vancouver Island Tribal Federation.

It will deal with views of the parties policies on Indian affairs for the next 100 years.

Mrs. Diane Recalma of Qualicum Bay said an attempt was being made to have two candidates from the Liberal, Conservative, NDP and Social Credit parties at the meeting.

Indian affairs minister Arthur Laing has also been invited together with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell and George Drediger, president of B.C. Social Credit League.

Opponents Try Fishing Instead of Speeches

CAMPBELL RIVER — Conservative candidate Blair McLean and his opponent, Liberal Dick Durante went off fishing on Saturday.

Mr. McLean, who is a well known fishing guide during the summer season in Campbell River, was chosen by Guides Unlimited to take Mr. Durante out to catch salmon.

The pair were on the water for three hours and each caught two salmon.

In an attempt to break the tie, Mr. McLean hooked a dog fish but Mr. Durante objected, saying that was foul play.

"What did they talk about?" "No comment," said Mr. McLean. "We just went fishing."

Mr. McLean joined the Campbell River Lions' walkathon afterwards.

He and several others covered the eight-mile course in about two hours.

Two Saved From Lake

LAKE COWICHAN — Two Victoria people, one of whom almost drowned, were rescued from Cowichan Lake on Sunday.

Kathleen and Richard Larsch, were fishing near the Kiwanis Lakeview Park.

Mrs. Larsch caught a fish, and in her excitement she stood up and tipped the small boat, and she and her husband fell into the cold water.

Mr. Larsch managed to keep his wife's head above water and drag her to shore, about 250 feet away.

As Mr. Larsch struggled onto the beach two young Victoria men went to help.

One jumped into the water, swam out to the boat and brought it into shore.

The two are members of Victoria Ball Club who were camping at Lakeview Park for the weekend.

Mrs. Larsch was in extreme shock and she and her husband were taken to Castaway Resort where they were staying.

Mrs. Larsch was wrapped in blankets and given oxygen by Gerry Salmon, safety director for Gordon River Logging Camp of Western Forest Industries.

The couple were driven to a doctor in Mr. Salmon's emergency truck.

Mr. Salmon said Mr. and Mrs. Larsch were wearing Mexican ponchos which collected air and helped to keep them afloat.

He said there were small life-jackets in the boat but the couple was not wearing them. Mr. Larsch apparently grabbed one of the jackets as the boat tipped over.

Former Soldier Dies in Ganges

GANGES — Victor James Harraway of Ganges Hill died Thursday.

He was the son of Col. H. Harraway who commanded a Gurkha Regiment during the Crimean war.

Mr. Harraway trained as a soldier in England and while a cadet won the Bisley cup for his regiment — the 13th Queen's Westminster Volunteers Mounted Infantry.

In 1914 he joined the Royal Navy Volunteer Reserve and in 1916 transferred as a lieutenant to the Royal Grand Army where he was appointed captain.

Later he took command of Sandown Barracks on the Isle of Wight. He stayed there until he was demobilized in 1919.

Mr. Harraway came to Canada in 1920 and joined the New Westminster penitentiary service. Later he was transferred to Kingston, Ont.

He went to Salt Spring Island where he was involved in a serious accident in 1943 and resigned from the service.

His wife, Eleanor, has worked as a life saving instructor to the St. John Ambulance. A funeral service was held at Royal Oak cemetery Saturday with Archdeacon R. B. Horstfield officiating. It was followed by cremation.

Injured Youth Dead

NANAIMO — Gary Smith, 19, of Chemainus died Monday in Nanaimo regional general hospital, following a car accident at Craig's Crossing.

Still in hospital is Sam Prevost of Alert Bay who was reported to be in good condition.

Four others, the driver, Henry Barth, Donna Mitchell, Tony James and Fred Magrum were treated and discharged.

Their car ran off the road, hurtled through the air and struck a power pole, snapping it off 15 feet above the base. The vehicle rolled some distance before stopping.

Police are investigating the accident.

Fishermen Search Called Off

FULFORD — An Ocean Cement truck was wrecked when it crashed into a stone wall at the bottom of a steep bank off the Fulford-Ganges Highway.

Moving the wreckage took about seven hours and motorists had to make a detour along Ousehoun Lake road.

Driver Alan Stewart, and passenger John Withers escaped with minor injuries.

Pitlamping Brings Fine

CHEMAMINUS — George Brian Wallace, 20 and Michael Lazare, 19, both of Nanaimo, were fined each $300 for pitlamping in the Youbou area. Both pleaded guilty.

Police said the two were arrested early Monday following a routine check on the Trans-Canada Highway. Two deer were found in their car.

Trudeau Adamant

By RON COLLISTER, Ottawa Bureau

KAMLOOPS—Prime Minister Trudeau dug in his heels Monday and refused to agree to any fundamental change in the medicare plan.

He answered Tory leader Robert Stanfield, who pushed medicare into the election with a promise that he will change it.

"There's no might about it," Stanfield said. "I have seldom felt so strongly about anything in my life as I do about the federal government forcing its will on the provinces in this matter."

"It is a provincial matter," Stanfield said.

Dropping into Castlegar on a campaign spin through the B.C. Interior, Mr. Trudeau was asked if he was planning any change in medicare in the next session of parliament. "...o," he replied, "medicare is the law of the land" and would come into effect on July 1, as scheduled.

He added that he stood by the principle of the plan and there was no question of amending it. Mr. Trudeau spent a successful day in British Columbia, drawing good crowds along the way and giving his aides some hope that he will crack through the Tory-New Democratic strength in the province.

He began the day at Penticton, ended it at Prince George, then spent the night at Edmonton.

He travelled 600 miles by air and car, and hit the following issues:

- A task force to find out why Canada doesn't do better in Olympic and other international events, and to find some answers.
- Helping the peach farmers.
- Canada, as one nation.

At all points, Mr. Trudeau was applauded when he stated his unity policy, and applauded again when he spoke French.

His audiences, maybe, did not understand what he was saying. But they seemed to like the idea of him speaking French, in a province where opposition was said to be running strong.

There was little sign of opposition Monday.

Mr. Trudeau also hammered away at the need for rich provinces to help poorer provinces, to help keep the country together.

He was speaking in one of the "rich" provinces, which, through a system of equalization payments, funnel help to poorer provinces through Ottawa.

Some of the areas where he talked are "designated" areas, getting government help. But this is because of the season.

No Bill 33 Speedup In Woods Dispute

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

B.C. has no intention of speeding up the proclamation of full powers under controversial Bill 33 to meet the threat of a strike this summer in the coast lumber industry, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson indicated Monday.

He said it will be up to the commission, after it takes office June 15, to set up its quarters in Vancouver and hire the necessary mediators and research staff before beginning operation.

The fact June 15 is also the first day on which the coastal IWA workers can legally strike, if no settlement is reached before that with Forest Industrial Relations, representing the industry, has led to speculation that the commission might intervene before the full machinery is set up.

Mr. Peterson said the public reaction to appointment of Judge John Parker of the Yukon territorial court as chairman and mediation commissioners

Protest Perch

OXFORD YOUTH JOINS UNREST

OXFORD, England (UPI)—The international wave of student political unrest reached hallowed Oxford University Monday when 300 students besieged the offices of the proctors, the university police.

The raid came in a day which also saw student unrest in Yugoslavia, France, Italy and Japan (see stories this page and Page 2).

CAMPED OUTSIDE

The Oxford students burst into the university registry through iron gates and camped outside the proctors' office to press a protest against a ban on the "indiscriminate distribution" of political leaflets.

The demonstration, organized by a student group calling itself the Committee of 90, coincided with the lapse of an ultimatum presented to the proctors demanding a revision of the proctors' disciplinary memorandum to junior students.

TWO FEMALES

When proctors refused to receive a deputation of two women students, the demonstrators started shouting "proctors out" and "end proctorial tyranny." Then they forced their way into the courtyard iron gates.

It was an unprecedented scene at Britain's oldest university, where proctors have always commanded near-total respect.

POLICE STOOD BY

Students of the university Conservative Association staged a counter-demonstration in support of the proctors but there was no direct clash. Police stood by in case of violence, but took no action.

After scuffles broke out in the registry courtyard between some proctors and demonstrators, the proctors agreed to receive student leader Trevor Munro.

PROCTORS AGREE

Senior proctor Charles Smith and junior proctor Robert Gaster then agreed to delete from the memorandum the passage banning the distribution of leaflets.

The demonstration broke up on an understanding that the students would be given the amendments in writing. Two other minor student protest incidents marked the holiday in Britain.

In Scotland, 25 Edinburgh University students were prevented by police from marching on the French consulate to demonstrate "solidarity" with the students and workers of France in their uprising against President Charles de Gaulle.

However, police permitted a deputation to deliver a note to the consulate expressing "total solidarity" with the French students and workers.

Burnaby Arts Dean Chosen by Faculty

BURNABY (CP)—It was a day of action and confusion at troubled Simon Fraser University Monday, but at day's end the tension appeared to be easing a little.

In a major move, Dr. John Ellis resigned as temporary acting president, and Dr. Archibald MacPherson, head of the geography department and dean of arts, was nominated by the faculty to replace him.

Dr. MacPherson said he will seek ratification by students today. His name then will go before the board of governors for final approval.

Also seeking the position were Prof. Robert Hopper of the behavioral sciences foundation and Prof. R. L. Koepke of the history faculty.

During the nominations, the names of Dr. Ellis and Martin Loney, student council president, were put forward, but both declined.

The board earlier agreed it would accept a faculty decision on a temporary acting president.

Dr. Ellis was appointed only last Friday to the post, when president Dr. Patrick McTag-

Belgrade Youth Battles Police

BELGRADE (AP)—Shouting down Yugoslavia's Communist party leaders with cries of "We want action—enough with words," students surged into a free-swinging battle with police here Monday.

A bloody riot Sunday night gave President Tito's independent Communist country its first taste of the unrest and upheaval affecting many of the world's university cities.

More than 60 persons were reported injured in two clashes involving thousands of students and helmeted police in Belgrade. Students accused police of brutality. Authorities said provocateurs, capitalizing on student grievances, had expanded the violence and looted shops.

Later, students occupied a building housing Belgrade University's administrative offices and the school of philosophy. Police surrounded the building while hundreds of persons gathered outside to hear students who made speeches from the balcony.

Elsewhere, speakers at a rally of 3,000 students called for parliament to meet on their complaints and denounced Yugoslav news media as biased against them.

The students asked that policemen who used "savage" tactics be demoted and that reporters who gave slanted
